The Central Coast Commission for Senior Citizens-­Area Agency on Aging (AAA), the sponsor of the Santa Barbara County Senior Resource Directory, is a non-profit organization responsible for allocating federal and state dollars to local agencies to move forward in the development of a ‘senior friendly’ community throughout Santa Barbara County.

Services provided are funded by the Older Americans Act. This Act is designed to strengthen our community’s ability to address the needs of its older persons and the caregivers of older persons. The Area Agency on Aging is the local organization designated to utilize the limited state and federal funds to address local needs.

The AAA is committed to the development of a home-­ and community-based system of care that will:

1. Secure and maintain maximum independence and dignity in a home environment for older persons capable of self care and appropriate supportive services;
2. Remove individual and social barriers to economic and personal independence for older persons;
3. Develop a continuum of care for the vulnerable elderly.

The AAA expands the services of the Older Americans Act through the development of local partnerships. These partnerships create and/or enhance projects that would not otherwise be possible. This Santa Barbara County Senior Resource Directory is one such project.

We are thankful to the organizations and businesses listed below for their generous financial support. This Directory would not be possible without their support.

In addition to the community’s financial support many individuals reviewed and updated the text of the Directory. This task can be quite laborious and I would like to extend a special thanks to those individuals who took the time to help make the information as accurate as possible.

Additionally, the information from the Senior Resource Directory is available on the AAA home page (www.centralcoastseniors.org). This will permit you to secure updates from the home page and provide us with another communication tool.

Please let me know your suggestions to improve this directory. A survey is enclosed for this purpose or just contact me.

The Santa Barbara County Senior Resource Directory is a community project with many people sharing their expertise and resources to help professionals, family members and older adults acquaint themselves with the many resources available within our community. Your generosity is greatly appreciated.

The Central Coast Commission for Senior Citizens, Area on Agency is delighted to present the 2012/14 Santa Barbara County Senior Resource Directory.

Residents in Santa Barbara County have a variety of community services available. It is not necessarily easy to determine what services you or a loved one may need. Equally difficult may be the task of locating the appropriate service agency. We wish we could give you the Santa Barbara Senior Resource Directory and know it would answer all of your questions. We know it cannot. It is our hope the Directory will simplify your search, expand your base of information, and ultimately ease the challenge you or a loved one is enduring.

The Directory provides you with a listing of nonprofit and governmental agencies that provide services to senior citizens. Descriptions of services and explanations of benefits have also been included to better acquaint you with the local service network. While the Directory listings represent only nonprofit and governmental agencies, the advertising includes for-profit enterprises as well. Inclusion of a listing or display ad does not imply an endorsement.

How do you know the right questions to ask? Who can help you evaluate if a specific service will meet your needs? And finally, can you expect all services to be available when you need them?

You need time and energy to research what services may meet your needs. The most difficult time to try to assess a need and investigate community resources is during a crisis. Although it is impossible to predict the future, the Directory is an opportunity to familiarize yourself with the community resource network before a crisis hits. Although all services are within arms reach, various factors play a role in determining whether or not a service is accessible. Five important factors are:

1. Determining what the need is.
2. Ability to find the service that you need.
3. Eligibility requirements.
4. Waiting lists.
5. Costs.

Determining Your Need

- A problem exists and you cannot easily resolve the problem alone,
- It may be helpful for you to talk with someone who is experienced in identifying specific problems and determining what problems could be relieved by the use of community services. Most nonprofit agencies provide Information and Referral. In most cases this is done on an informal basis. In addition a few agencies offer assessment services.

If there is more than one problem, it is important to define each problem individually. No one agency provides the complete scope of services you may need. You may secure different services from various agencies.

Finding an Agency to Assist You

This Directory can help you narrow down your possible choices. If you call an agency you think may be able to help and for one reason or another they cannot, ask them for suggestions.

Senior Connection

A specialized senior information and assistance service of the Area Agency on Aging. This service will assist with information, referral, follow up, and education. This free service is available through 800-510-2020, 965-3288 or 928-2552.

With the referrals you receive, call and explain your situation as best you can. If they can help, Great! If they cannot, as for another referral. Also, call back to Senior Connection for additional referrals.

There are also other information and referral agencies. Some serve all populations, some serve specialized areas of concern. Be sure to contact the one addressing your needs and concerns.

Eligibility Requirements

Each agency has different eligibility requirements. The most common are age and income. ASK!

Some agencies provide services to people not on an entitlement program. Others may require only that your income not be above a certain level. And others may not have any income requirements at all. Eligibility requirements may be specified at the state or federal level or the funding source. They may be the agency’s effort to provide services to a very specific population.

If you are assisting someone, it is important to find out from the agency exactly what income and asset information is required and what kind of documentation must be provided.

You may need to have the individual you are helping write a short letter authorizing you to act on their behalf. There are other legal documents that can be very helpful in allowing an individual to act for another person. “Durable Powers of Attorney” and “General Powers of Attorney” are examples.

Both documents can be used only for specific reasons and when an agent can act on another’s behalf is defined by law. Investigate before you proceed.

Waiting Lists/Denials

If you determine that you are eligible for a particular service and it is the service that will best meet your needs, then the next question is when can the service begin.

Our best advice is, if there is a waiting list, get on it. You may have to settle for another service that either may cost more than you can afford or does not quite meet your needs. If you don’t need the service when you name comes up on the list, they will go to the next person. Don’t think that you can wait until the agency no longer has a waiting list. It may not happen.

Additionally, access to services may be restricted. If your health plan or an agency denies services you will want to ask them about your right to appeal the decision. If the denial regards a Medicare service, contact Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP) at 800-434-0222 or 928-5663.

Cost

Finally, cost will determine if you can afford the services. Some agencies have a set cost, no matter what your income; others determine cost based on income; some services are free, and still others--AAA federally funded programs (the Nutrition-program is one example)—ask only for a donation. ASK!

Long Distance Caregiving

Most communities have a range of services available for older persons, but finding them is often a challenge for families.

A toll-free telephone service, known as ElderCare Locator makes it easier to locate specific resources for senior citizens. The ElderCare Locator’s toll-free number, 800-677-1116 is available weekdays from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. (EST) for callers in the United States. Callers have access to more than 4,500 state and local resources, as well as special purpose numbers.

Additionally, the California Department of Aging has established a single Senior Information Line, 800-510-2020. When this number is called from anywhere in California, it connects the caller to the local senior citizen information and assistance center.

On Line

The content of the Senior Resource Directory is available on the home page of the Central Coast Commission for Senior Citizens (www.centralcoast-seniors.org ). This is done to improve access to the information. We will endeavor to keep the on line information updated. And, as we develop the home page, we will endeavor to create linkages to other information resources.

There are many resources available online. Here are just a few to begin your search for community services:

- Eldercare Locator
  - www.eldercare.gov/eldercare
- California Department of Aging
  - www.aging.ca.gov
- 2-1-1 Helpline
  - www.211sbcounty.org

In Conclusion

Every effort has been taken to verify the accuracy of the information included within these pages. Should you become aware of a discrepancy, please let us know.

Your suggestions for improving the Directory, or any information revealing new and not listed information as well as your opinions are welcome. Your comments would be appreciated. Send your comments to:

What is Elder Abuse?
The aging of our society presents challenges to many sectors of our community. Increasing numbers of older persons are being cared for in their own homes, where resources to provide sufficient care may be limited. Substantial portions of our elderly are being cared for by elderly children and spouses. Recent reports from the House Select Committee on Aging focus attention on the problem of elder abuse. Elder abuse is not a new problem.

Definitions

Neglect
Denial of food, clothing, shelter or health care or the inability to provide basic needs.

Mental Suffering
Infliction of mental anguish by demanding, name-calling, insulting, ignoring, humiliating, frightening, threatening, isolating, etc.

Financial Abuse
Theft, misuse of funds or property, extortion, duress, fraud.

Abandonment
Desertion or willful forsaking of an elder by anyone having care or custody of that person under circumstances in which a reasonable person would continue to provide care or custody.

Physical Abuse
Direct beatings, lack of food, lack of medical care or over medication, sexual exploitation, neglect.

Isolation
Intentionally preventing an elder from receiving his or her mail or telephone calls. Telling a caller or prospective visitor that an elder is not present, or does not wish to talk or meet when the statement is false or is contrary to the express wishes of the elder, whether s/he is competent or not, and is made for the purpose of preventing the elder from having contact with family, friends or concerned people. False imprisonment. Physical restraint for the purpose of preventing the elder from meeting with visitors.

Self Neglect
The negligent failure of the person themselves to exercise the degree of care that a reasonable person in a like position would exercise.

Toward Prevention — for Individuals

Do’s…
- Stay sociable as you age; maintain and increase your network of friends and acquaintances.
- Keep in contact with old friends and neighbors if you move in with a relative or change to a new address.
- Develop a “buddy” system with a friend outside the home. Plan for at least a weekly contact and share openly with a person.
- Ask friends to visit you at home; even a brief visit can allow observations of your well-being.
- Accept new opportunities for activities. They can bring new friends.
- Participate in community activities as you are able.
- Volunteer or become a member or officer of an organization. Participate regularly.
- Have your own telephone; post and open your own mail. If your mail is being intercepted, discuss the problem with postal authorities.
- Stay organized. Keep your belongings neat and orderly. Make sure others are aware that you know where everything is kept.
- Take care of your personal needs. Keep regular medical, dental, barber, hairdresser, and other personal appointments.
- Arrange to have your Social Security or pension check deposited directly to a bank account.
- Get legal advice about arrangements you can make now for possible future disability, including powers-of-attorney or conservatorships.
- Keep records, accounts, and property available for examination by someone you trust, as well as the person you or the court has designated to manage your affairs.
- Review your will periodically. Give up control of your property or assets only when you decide you cannot manage them.
- Ask for help when you need it. Discuss your plans with your attorney, physician, or family members.

Don’ts…
- Don’t live with a person who has a background of violent behavior or alcohol or drug abuse.
- Don’t leave your home unattended. Notify police if you are going to be away for a long period. Don’t leave messages on the door while you are away.
- Don’t leave cash, jewelry, or prized possessions lying about.
- Don’t accept personal care in return for transfer or assignments of your property or assets unless a lawyer, advocate, or another trusted person acts as a witness to the transaction.
- Don’t sign a document unless someone you trust has reviewed it.
- Don’t allow anyone else to keep details of your finances or property management from you.

Abuse and/or neglect may be intentional or due to a caregiver’s lack of knowledge or capacity to care for the older person. Abuse also can be reflective of a stressed family or long-standing difficult parent-child relationship. Elder abuse can be found anywhere that senior citizens are located—in the home, in residential or convalescent facilities, or in other areas of the community. Abusers can be family members, caregivers, employees, or strangers.

What Can I Do To Look Over My Loved One’s Financial Affairs?

1. Assist your loved one in implementing and managing all of the prevention items. Do not be afraid to ask questions.
2. Look for signs of abuse reflected by changes in your loved one. These signs are many and varied and include, but are not limited to, depression, anger, hesitancy to talk freely, frightened, secretive, isolation, and changes in personal hygiene.
3. Have a responsible individual, either a family member or trusted professional maintain an active review of bank statements including all checking and savings accounts, credit card statements and any other financial instruments from which funds can be withdrawn.
4. Look for financial transactions that do not make sense such as transfers from accounts. ATM usage when your loved one is unable to leave his/her home and payments made for purchases or repairs that appear to be excessive in cost.
5. Look for suspicious signatures on checks or other documents.
6. Be wary of any ‘new best friends’ who have come into your loved one’s life. A ‘red flag’ identifying a potentially inappropriate relationship is when the ‘new best friend’ answers questions directed to your loved one.
7. Take an inventory of all valuable possessions and review the inventory on a regular basis.
8. When your loved one talks about making a big purchase, going on a trip or participating in outings to atypical destinations such as a casino, get involved; especially if there is another individual involved.
9. If your loved one does not have a shredder, buy one.
10. Make sure the care of the loved one is commensurate with the size of his/her financial assets.
11. Make sure purchases made on behalf of your loved one are for his/her use. Look at recent food purchases to determine whether the food being purchased is in the home.
12. Be wary if your loved one talks about changing any legal documents including wills and powers of attorney.
13. Be wary if your loved one talks about dissatisfaction with his/her attorney or accountant and want to make a change.
14. If you have financial power of attorney, request the bank to flag all accounts and notify you if there are transactions over a specified limit.
15. If you suspect financial abuse, do not hesitate to contact the police and/or Adult Protective services.
16. If an individual is arrested for financial abuse involving your loved one, insist on the maximum penalty under the law.

Tip: Home Repair Scams Alert

Never Buy Home Repairs From Door To Door Sellers

Many elderly persons are targeted by scam artists who use high pressure tactics to sell unneeded and overpriced contracts for “home improvements.” Often they charge more than their customers are led to believe. And then, when the senior refuses to pay for shoddy or incomplete work, the contractor or its closely affiliated financial institution, attempts to force payment by placing a lien on the senior’s home and making threats.

How You Can Protect Yourself

There are several basic steps one can take which can prevent a problem from arising:

- Never deal with any door to door contractors or buy repairs advertised on TV. Deal with local trades people recommended by friends or reputable building supply stores.
- Before agreeing to hire any home improvement contractor, get at least a second estimate for the same work from another contractor.
- Get a written contract or estimate describing the work, the price, the responsibility for cleaning up, and the hourly rate for any added work.
- Get references for the contractor and speak to those references. Ask about satisfaction and any, problems that arose.
- Take a look at other work performed by the same contractor.

If problems have developed with a contractor’s work, seniors should immediately take steps to protect their interests, such as:

- Obtain an estimate from a professional detailing how much damage was done by the contractor and the value of whatever services were rendered.
- Take detailed pictures of the work or damage left by the contractor and date them. These photos can be used in court to show the nature and extent of the problem.
- Hire an expert (architect, reputable contractor, etc.) to look at the work for quality and compliance with specifications. The expert can also provide an estimate regarding the fairness of the price for work completed, the extent of physical damage, and its cost to repair.
Chronic health problems, more common among the aged, often are worsened by alcohol use. Because seniors are experiencing many health changes and many are also taking medication, they need to be aware of the effects of combining their medications with other drugs or alcohol. Medication misuse and abuse is one of the leading causes of loss of independence in frail older persons.

There are a variety of services if one has a problem with alcohol and/or the misuse of prescription drugs. The two general types of services are outpatient and in-patient/residential.

Out-Patient

Out-patient means that you go to the facility for the program or session(s), and then return home. These services are normally available 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Services can include diagnosis and evaluation; group and/or family counseling, and self help groups.

P.O. Box 689
Santa Barbara, CA 93105

In-Patient or Residential Treatment

There are also in-patient or residential treatment programs. These can include up to a week of detoxification and then an average of 30 days of treatment in a residential setting or in a medical facility. Longer term treatment is also available if needed.

Within Santa Barbara County both in-patient and out-patient services are available to seniors. Some programs accept Medicare, Medi-Cal, private insurance, or have a sliding fee sched-

Consumers are able to put their phone numbers on a national ‘do not call’ registry. It is illegal for most telemarketers to call a number listed on the registry.

Consumers may sign up on the Web at www.donotcall.gov or call 888-382-1222. The hearing impaired may call 866-290-4236.

Californians can register either through the FTC site or through the California attorney general’s web site, www.caag.state.ca.us/donotcall which has a link to the FTC site. Californians who registered through the state attorney general’s web site will have their information transferred to the FTC.

Free Annual Credit Reports

Under the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act of 2003, all consumers are entitled to free annual credit reports from the three major credit bureaus: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion.

To order your free credit report, go to the government-mandated site:
www.annualcreditreport.com

If you do not have internet access, call 1-877-322-8228 to request your credit report.

Placing A Fraud Alert on Your Account

If you discover that someone else is taking out credit cards or loans in your name, immediately report the situation to the fraud units of the three credit bureaus. If you notify one bureau that you are a victim of identity theft, it is required to notify the other two bureaus. Ask that your file be flagged with a fraud alert. Add a statement to your report (“My ID has been used to apply for credit fraudulently. Contact me at [telephone number] to verify all applications.”)

Fraud alerts are usually placed for 90-180 days. You can extend the time period to seven years by doing so in writing. You may cancel fraud alerts at any time.

Placing A Freeze on Your Account

To place a freeze on your account so that no further credit accounts can be opened in your name, contact each of the three credit bureaus and complete the required paperwork for a freeze to be placed on your account. A credit report freeze costs $10 (or $30 for all three credit bureaus). You can suspend the freeze with a few days’ notice if you are planning to seek additional credit yourself, but the cost is another $10 to each of the three bureaus to suspend the freeze. If you are a victim of identity theft, the freeze is free.

Questions Consumers Should Ask

The following is a list of important questions that consumers and caregivers should ask their health care providers about each medicine:

- Why is this medicine prescribed?
- How does the medicine work in my body?
- How can I expect to feel once I start taking this medicine?
- How will I know the medicine is working? Is there a typical period after which my symptoms should improve?
- How long will I have to take this medicine? Will I need a refill when I finish this prescription?
- Will this medicine interact with other medicines—prescription and nonprescription—that I am taking now?
- Should I take this medicine with food? Are there any foods or beverages I should avoid?
- Are there any activities I should avoid while taking this medicine?
- What possible problems might I experience with the medicine? How can I prevent these problems from occurring? At what point should I report problems with the medicine?
- What should I do if I miss a dose of this medicine, or take too much?
- What is the cost for the medicine prescribed? Is there a less expensive alternative prescription?

Older adults are sometimes confronted with the need to change jobs, re-enter the work force because of a change of status, or seek part-time employment to supplement a fixed income.

Working While Receiving Social Security
Work does not reduce your Social Security benefit if you are age 66 or older. You may receive your full benefit without any limit on your earnings. In fact, continued work often increases your benefit since you are still contributing to Social Security. You do not need to report these earnings to Social Security.

However if you are not yet 66, earnings over certain limits may reduce your Social Security benefit (this section is not referring to disability benefits where separate earnings limits apply). These earnings limits increase each year. The 2012 amounts are shown below, so be sure to get the latest information for other years.

For the years before you turn 66, the earnings limit is $14,640. You may still be able to receive some Social Security benefit while you are working, but for every $2 you earn above this limit, your Social Security benefit will be reduced by $1.

For the year you turn 66, you may earn up to a total of $38,880 during the months before the month you turn 66. For every $3 you earn above this limit, your Social Security benefit will be reduced by $1. Beginning with the month you turn 66, no limit applies.

Questions can be answered by calling 800-772-1213 or looking online at www.socialsecurity.gov. If you start or stop working while you are under 66 and receiving benefits, you should report the change to Social Security.

Looking out for Signs of Risky Behavior

- You can ride along with a driver and look for signs of risky behind-the-wheel behavior. Here are some things to look for:
  - Does the driver neglect to buckle up? Going unbelted might be a bad habit — or it may indicate a poor fit or trouble fastening a belt.
  - Does the driver have difficulty working the pedals? A driver, who lifts his or her leg to move from the accelerator to the brake, rather than keeping a heel on the floor and pressing with the toes, may be signaling waning strength.
  - Does the driver have difficulty merging on freeways or turning onto busy streets? Vision problems may impair his or her ability to judge the speed and distance of approaching traffic.
  - When merging, changing lanes or backing up, does the driver rely only on the mirrors, rather than turning fully to check the blind spots over his or her shoulder? Failing to do so may be a bad habit — or may indicate the onset of stiffness in the neck and back.
  - Does the driver have trouble seeing other vehicles, cyclists, or pedestrians, especially at night? Deteriorating night vision or sensitivity to glare may be the cause.
  - Does the driver seem to ignore or “miss” stop signs and other traffic signals? Perhaps he or she is inattentive or cannot spot the signs in a crowded, constantly moving visual field.
  - Does the driver react too slowly to sirens and flashing lights of emergency vehicles?
  - Does the driver weave, straddle lanes, drift into other lanes, or change lanes without signaling?
  - Does the driver position the car improperly for turns (especially left turns), or attempt turns from the wrong lane?
  - Do other drivers honk or pass frequently, even when the traffic stream is moving relatively slowly? This may indicate difficulty keeping pace with fast-changing conditions.
  - Does the driver tend to park far from his or her destination? A problem judging distances or making tight maneuvers may underlie the fear of closer parking spots.
  - Does the driver get lost or disoriented easily, even in familiar places?
  - Do you find yourself giving directions or prompting the driver frequently?
  - Has the driver been issued two or more traffic tickets or warnings in the past two years? Tickets can predict greatest risk for accident.
  - Has the driver been involved in two or more accidents or “near-misses” in the past two years? Rear-enders, parking lot fender-benders, and side accidents while turning across traffic rank as the most common mishaps for drivers with diminishing skills, depth perception, or reaction time.
For many of us, discussions about end of life choices and death are avoided. Suddenly we are faced with making decisions we have little preparation for and even less information about.

There are some actions you can take prior to an illness to protect your wishes. Planning in advance for the death of a loved one can relieve you of making decisions you are unprepared for at a time when you are emotionally most vulnerable. Having an Advanced Health Care Directive, a completed Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment (POLST) or a Five Wishes form will help identify your choices and preferences or those of a loved.

Making medical decisions in advance can have the benefit of being less emotionally charged and difficult. Take time now to educate yourself, discuss these matters and find out what your loved ones want.

Palliative Care

“Palliative care” is a way of caring for patients who are facing a life-threatening illness. By enhancing patients’ comfort and controlling pain, palliative care ensures the highest possible quality of life regardless of the person’s age, stage of disease or need for other therapies. Palliative care is provided in many different settings and professional fields.

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care partners with Cottage Hospital, Hospice of Santa Barbara, and St Francis Foundation to provide a comprehensive Palliative Care Consult Team for patients who are in the hospital. The team includes specially trained doctors, nurses, social workers and spiritual counselors.

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care is also partnering with the Cancer Center of Santa Barbara and Hospice of Santa Barbara to provide a Community Palliative Care Program. The mission of this program is to provide palliative care to improve quality of life for those patients and their families who are facing a life threatening illness outside the hospital setting. The Community Palliative Care team consists of a doctor, nurse, and medical social worker specially trained in palliative care. They treat pain and other symptoms, and address patients’ and family members’ emotional and social issues and spiritual concerns. A primary focus of this program is to connect patients and families to community resources, and provide a smooth transition when the patient moves from the hospital to home, or to another care setting.

To find out more about Palliative Care, please call 805-965-5555 in Santa Barbara and 805-693-5555 in Santa Ynez and Lompoc Valleys.

Marian Regional Health Center (Dignity Health)

Palliative Care offers specialized care for patients with progressive, life-limiting illnesses (cancer, heart & lung disease, MS, lupus, etc.). Patients are eligible for these services whether they have recently been diagnosed, are in active treatment, have completed therapy, or are nearing the end of life. The goals of palliative care are to provide for comfort through aggressive pain and symptom management, offer emotional and spiritual support, and attend to the best possible quality of life for patients and their families.

The Palliative Care Team works closely with the patient’s physician to develop a treatment plan that supports the patient’s health care expectations.

For more information regarding Palliative Care Services, please call 805-614-2029.

Advance Health Care Directives

An Advance Health Care Directive is a legally recognized document that allows a person to provide information to your family, friends and physician(s) about your health care preferences, including the types of special treatment you want or do not want at the end of your life. The advanced health care directive document Is meant to be completed by anyone 18 years of age or older and it can be changed at any time, should one’s wishes change. You can give specific instructions about any aspect of your health care, whether you appoint a health care agent (decision maker) or not. Along with documenting the type of care you wish to receive, you are also to appoint another person as your ‘health care agent’ to make health care decisions for you if you are unable to make your own decisions. You should also consider naming an alternate agent in case your first choice is unwilling, unable or unavailable to make decisions for you.

POLST (Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment)

POLST (Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment) is a form that states what kind of medical treatment patients want toward the end of their lives. Printed on bright pink paper, and signed by both a doctor and patient, POLST helps give seriously ill patients more control over their end-of-life care.

Changes to the California POLST Form were approved by the statewide POLST Task Force and the Emergency Medical Services Authority Commission. The new form went into effect on April 1, 2011. Previous versions of signed POLST forms remain valid.

Organ Donation
Some people express a desire to “will” their body to science or to donate vital organs after death. This decision should be made prior to death.

The Gift of Life program is for tissue and organ donors. By becoming an organ and tissue donor, you truly give life and hope to others. When you add your name to the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry you consent to having your organs and tissues made available for transplantation upon death. A pink “DONOR” dot will be printed on your DL/ID card. Your name, mailing address, birth date, driver license or identification card number and gender will be transmitted to the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry.

There are also other options available for organ, tissue and whole body donations.

When considering donating your organs/tissues for transplant, or your body for medical/forensic research and education, there are five options in the Southern California area that has been researched and endorsed by the Funeral Consumer Alliance of Southern California. A high-level summary of each of the options is provided below.

One Legacy - A non-profit organization associated with the DMV “pink dot” on your driver’s license enabling organ/tissue donation to people awaiting transplants. The body is then returned to the family for burial/cremation.

UCLA Medical Center - A non-profit organization that accepts bodies from the Southern California area for purposes of local medical research and education. The body/cremated remains are not returned to family.

University of Tennessee’s Forensic Anthropology Center (UTFAC) - A research center within the University of Tennessee that accepts bodies from the Southern California area for purposes of forensic anthropology research. Bodies are not cremated since the emphasis of research involves skeletal studies. The skeletal remains are not returned to the family because they are used for research indefinitely. However, visitations of the remains can be arranged.

Science Care - A for-profit organization based in Arizona that receives bodies from throughout the US (except New Jersey and Minnesota) for the purpose of medical research, training and professional education nationwide. Cremated remains are returned to family.

Life Legacy - A non-profit organization based in Arizona that is able to receive bodies from throughout the US and benefits research institutions around the world. Cremated remains are returned to family.

Support Groups
Bereavement groups for anyone experiencing the loss of someone special, particularly within the last year, are held by some hospice organizations. One-to-one counseling may also be available for those who require more intensive support. For a listing, see Support Groups.

Medicare

Medicare is the federal health insurance program which began in 1966. Apply for Medicare online at www.socialsecurity.gov or by calling Social Security at 800-772-1213. The government contracts with private insurers to handle claims. Medicare covers persons age 65 and over who are entitled to Social Security benefits, some disabled persons, and persons with permanent kidney failure. Medicare may be purchased by people over age 65 who are not eligible under these guidelines.

HICAP, Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program, provides free information about Medicare through trained volunteer HICAP counselors. You can learn how Medicare works, what the various Medicare supplement insurance plans offer, and what to do if something goes wrong. Call 1-800-434-0222 to speak with or set up an appointment with a HICAP counselor.

Another important resource is the Center for Medicare Advocacy, a non-profit public interest law group specializing in Medicare litigation and advocacy. Their website has a wealth of information about Medicare by topic, articles, and alerts: www.medicareadvocacy.org. The phone for the national headquarters of the Center for Medicare Advocacy is 1-860-456-7790. This is not a toll-free line, so you may want to read their materials online first.

Applying for Medicare

You may apply for Medicare enrollment beginning three months prior to your 65th birth month and ending three months after your birth month. Medicare is divided into parts. Part A is insurance intended to cover hospitalization and certain other specified types of care. Everyone who qualifies for Medicare receives this portion automatically. Part B, which is outpatient medical insurance, is optional. There is a monthly charge for Part B ($99.90 for most people), and the amount is normally deducted from your Social Security check. Most people choose to enroll in Part B. If you delay there is a 10% penalty on the monthly Part B premium for each year you delay. This penalty continues for the remainder of your life.

If you continue to work past age 65 and have medical coverage through your place of employment or your spouse's employ-ment, you may delay your enrollment in Medicare Part B until the time you or your spouse do retire with no attached penalty.

To Find Out About Coverage

Medicare has free pamphlets that describe Medicare coverage. Medicare and You, a handbook, is updated regularly and is an invaluable tool in answering many questions as they arise. Be aware that there are a number of seemingly medically related procedures that are not covered by Medicare. It is best to ask your physician if procedures that s/he recommends are covered.

The Medicare Telephone Helpline acts as a referral service and can provide publications on Medicare. Contact: Medicare Telephone Helpline at 800-Medicare, (800-633-4227). One can also report suspected Medicare abuse or fraud and improper sales practices of Medi-Gap policies or Medicare Advantage plans at 800-Medicare.

Medicare Assignment

When a claim is submitted to the Medicare contractor, there will be a determination made regarding the “Medicare approved amount” for whatever procedures were done. If the doctor agrees to accept that amount as payment in full for services rendered, that is known as accepting “Medicare Assignment.” The Medicare Contractor will send a check for 80% of the amount to your physician if the annual Part B deductible has been met. The patient is then only responsible for the remaining 20% (plus any part of the annual deductible not yet paid). Without an “assignment” agreement, the patient and/or his supplemental insurance carrier is responsible for excess charges up to 115% of the Medicare approved amount.

Many doctors do not accept assignment. Some doctors and suppliers will accept it for some services and not for others. In all cases YOU should check if the provider accepts assignment.

Filing a Claim

Part A & B

The hospital, doctor or other provider sends claims for benefits under Part A or B, to the Medicare contractor. You will receive notice of payment to the provider if the provider accepted assignment or a check payable to you if the provider did not accept assignment. Be sure to deposit the check promptly and you should pay the provider the amount owed. Be sure you can furnish the hospital or doctor with your Medicare number and information about any other health insurance that you might have. You are responsible for the deductible and co-payments. If you have supplemental insurance it may pay part or all of the remaining balance.

Appealing a Benefit Decision

You have the right to appeal a Medicare claim denial. You may use a copy of the Medicare Summary Notice or the Explanation of Medicare Benefits that you receive from the Medicare contractor to document your reasons for appealing. Attach any additional information from the provider to support the claim.

Where to Get Help

You may call the phone number listed on the Medicare Summary Notice or Explanation of Benefits for clarification of your claim. Call the local Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP) at 800-434-0222 for free assistance in filing your Medicare appeal.
Appealing Hospital Discharge
Medicare’s Prospective Payment System (also known as Diagnostic Related Group or “DRG”) is a fixed-price payment system. Through this system, Medicare will pay a predetermined amount for treatment of a particular illness.

The amount of time that you actually stay in the hospital, however, should be determined solely by your medical condition. If you are told that you will be discharged before you believe it is medically appropriate, contact your doctor and your Quality Improvement Organization 800-841-1602 immediately if you decide to appeal the discharge. Your hospital social worker can give you more information about the appeals process. Information and assistance with appeals of hospital discharge notices is available. Unsafe discharges are against the law, and if you think a family member is being unsafely discharged from a hospital or from a skilled nursing facility, be sure to raise that objection prior to the discharge.

You may obtain a Medicare Appeals and Grievances fact sheet from Medicare by calling 800-633-4227 or calling your local HICAP at 800-434-0222.

Medicare Part C - Medicare Advantage
As an alternative to using Original Medicare fee-for-service, Medicare beneficiaries have the option to enroll in a Medicare Advantage (MA) Plan, also referred to as Medicare Part C plans. Medicare pays private insurance companies to provide health services to beneficiaries who have enrolled in these plans. Joining an MA plan is optional.

To join an MA plan, you must be enrolled in both Medicare Part A and Part B and must continue to pay the Part B premium. There may be an additional monthly premium to be paid to the plan. If you join an MA plan, you receive Medicare-covered benefits through your plan. You are still on Medicare and still retain the full rights and protections entitled to all Medicare beneficiaries.

Medicare Advantage Plans are available in specific geographic areas. The types most commonly available in our area, HMO and PPO, are described below. Other MA plans include Medicare Savings Accounts (MSA), Private Fee for Service (PFFS), and Special Needs Plans (SNP). Many MA plans include prescription coverage.

Enrollment in an MA plan is based on a calendar year. Current plans may not be available the following year, and some new plans may be offered for the next year. Beneficiaries have the option of changing MA plans, or returning to Original Medicare, each year during the Annual Election Period (October 15 to December 7 in 2012).

Before signing an application for an MA plan, be sure to understand all of the terms and conditions. In many cases people thought they were signing for one coverage when they were actually signing for all of the Medicare health coverage to be done by a different insurance company.

Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO)
If you enroll in a Medicare Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) in your area, all of your care, whether doctor or hospital or other facility, is provided through that HMO. You will be required to choose a primary care doctor who will manage your care, and who must approve referrals to other specialists. Co-payments for hospitalization and out-patient services will apply. If you see a doctor or use a facility outside the plan, and you do not have a pre-approved referral, you cannot use your HMO plan card or your Medicare card to pay for those services.

Medicare Part D
Medicare beneficiaries can be covered by a prescription drug plan called Medicare Part D. Beneficiaries who wish to continue with Medicare Fee for Service plans are able to enroll in a commercial Prescription Drug Plan (PDP). Beneficiaries who wish to enroll or to continue with a Medicare Advantage (HMO) or PFFS will be able to enroll in a Medicare Advantage Prescription Drug (MA-PD) plan offered by an HMO or other Medicare Advantage Plan.

The standard plan will have an annual deductible, 75% coverage of covered drugs between the deductible and the cut-off. There is no coverage by insurance between the cut-off and an out of pocket limit (OOP). If a person has covered drug costs above the OOP limit, the insurance plan will pay 95% of the cost of covered drugs above the amount during that year. Each plan will establish its list of covered drugs and specific costs and benefits. Annual Election Period for members to join a Part D plan or to change plans is November 15 to December 31 each year. Medicare Advantage members may only enroll, change or disenroll from January 1 to March 31. If a person decides to enroll later there is a penalty of 1% for each month delay and there is only one Annual Election period each year. For further information contact HICAP at 800-434-0222.

Options

Original Medicare/Fee-for-service
You go to the provider of your choice and pay the required deductibles and co-payments. You may have supplemental insurance to assist in paying the charges not paid by Medicare.

Medi-Gap, or Supplementary Insurance
Most people feel the need to purchase additional insurance to assist with costs that Medicare does not cover. There are many kinds of group and individual insurance policies available. Be sure to explore several plans. If you belong to a Medicare Advantage Plan, all of your health care is provided through the HMO. Check with the HMO... to determine what other coverage, such as prescription discounts are available through your HMO.

Counseling on supplemental health insurance and Medicare Advantage is available. This free service is available from the Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP); more information is available by calling 800-434-0222.

If you have problems with HMO’s, several organizations provide consumer information and assistance.

If you are on Medi-Cal without a share of costs greater than $500, your Medicare premium is automatically paid for you. Physicians and other providers accepting Medi-Cal patients accept the Medicare and Medi-Cal reimbursement as payment in full. Therefore, you do not need additional health insurance to pay medical costs.

Preventing Medicare Fraud
Medicare beneficiaries can help prevent Medicare fraud that costs the taxpayers nearly $20 billion per year. If you believe that the billing for any services paid by Medicare which you receive is fraudulent, contact Medicare at 800-Medicare (800-633-4227).

Some tips to prevent fraud, include, but are not limited, to:
Never give your Medicare number over the phone or to people you don’t know.
Beware of suppliers and providers that use phone calls and door-to-door selling as a way to sell you goods or services.
Be suspicious of companies that offer free medical equipment or offer to waive your co-payment without first asking about your ability to pay.
Beware of health care providers who say they represent Medicare or a branch of the Federal Government, or providers who use pressure tactics to get you to accept a service or product.

When Will Medicare Pay for Skilled Nursing Facility Care?
Seniors may have to face skilled nursing home facility care for themselves or their spouses. When it comes to skilled nursing facility care, Medicare is really a short-term rehabilitation program, not a long term care program.

There are several requirements in order for Medicare or a Medicare Supplement to cover any care in a skilled nursing facility. #1: The patient must have spent at least 72 hours in a hospital within the past 30 days for the same condition. #2: The patient must be discharged to a skilled nursing facility for rehabilitation. #3: The patient must receive at least 5 days per week of skilled services, e.g. physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, IV therapy, and/or other services requiring a skilled health care professional.

 Custodial care is not enough to get Medicare coverage in a skilled nursing facility. Custodial care includes 24/7 supervision due to cognitive impairment, and/or assistance with two or more activities of daily living, i.e. eating, toileting, bathing, dressing, using incontinent supplies, or transferring. If all the patient is receiving at the skilled nursing facility is custodial care, and not 5 days per week of skilled nursing services, then Medicare and Medicare Supplements cover nothing.

If Medicare does cover the stay at the skilled nursing facility for rehab (5 days per week), then Medicare will pay 100% of the first 20 days. From day 21 to day 100, when coverage ends for that benefit period, there is a co-pay of $144.50 per day (in 2012), over $4,000 per month, which Medicare Supplements are designed to pick up all or part of. But once skilled nursing services drop to below 5 days per week or are cut off entirely, the patient must pay private pay (about $9,000 to $10,000 per month in Santa Barbara County), and this frequently happens around day 14-28. For this reason, most long-term skilled nursing facility residents have Medi-Cal, not Medicare. Either they run out of money, or they learn how to qualify for Medi-Cal from an attorney. The best time to see the lawyer if a senior is going to be in a skilled nursing facility for the long term is as soon as you realize that this stay may be long term, not short-term.

Medi-Cal
Medi-Cal is complex. Be sure to read the Legal section in the Senior Resource Directory for more information about Medi-Cal. Medi-Cal (called Medicaid in other states) is the federal and state medical assistance program for aged (65 or over), blind, or disabled persons, or for residents of nursing homes in the State of California. Eligibility for Medi-Cal is based on how much the single individual or the married couple owns in countable assets, excluding exempt assets.

The rules are very different depending on whether a person is applying for community Medi-Cal while living in the community or Long Term Care Medi-Cal for a skilled nursing facility. Also, the rules are very different according to whether the applicant is single or married. Countable property determines eligibility, but income determines what the Medi-Cal beneficiary’s Share of Cost (Medi-Cal co-pay) will be.

Normally, the County Social Services Department determines eligibility for Medi-Cal. Medi-Cal for long-term care in a skilled nursing facility is very much a middle class program, especially when there is one spouse in the nursing home and one spouse NOT in the nursing home. There are special federal and state rules to prevent the impoverishment of the spouse who is not in the nursing home, and these rules can allow the community spouse to retain large amounts of assets and still qualify the ill spouse for long term care.
care Medi-Cal for the skilled nursing facility. (This will require an elder law attorney to do court work.)

If the applicant has very low income in addition to less than $2,000 in countable assets and is aged (65 or over), blind, or disabled, then that individual may qualify for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), in which case that individual is automatically qualified for Medi-Cal. (This is called “categorical eligibility” for Medi-Cal, and is determined and administered through the Social Security Administration rather than through the County Department of Social Services.)

To apply for SSI, contact the Social Security Administration in your area. If you do not qualify for SSI because your income exceeds the SSI limit, you may still qualify for Medi-Cal through the Department of Social Services if you are aged (65 or over), blind or disabled. Some applicants will have zero Share of Cost under the Federal Poverty Level Program (FPL), and others will have a “share-of-cost” (SOC, or a Medi-Cal co-pay each month). The SOC is the amount you must pay each month before Medi-Cal will pay the remainder of your medical bill. For more information please contact your local Santa Barbara County Department of Social Services. (See list below)

You may apply for these programs at any time, regardless of any other insurance coverage you may have, including Medicare. You may also appeal any denial of eligibility you should wish to do so. The instructions for appeal will accompany the letter of denial.

Some Medi-Cal covered services include: doctor visits, hospitalization, laboratory work, x-rays, home health services, mental health services, medical supplies and equipment, physical therapy and emergency medical transportation. Additionally, some Medi-Cal covered services include items not covered by Medicare: some prescription drugs, eyeglasses, dental care, long term nursing home care, podiatry and chiropractic care. Medi-Cal can also pay the Medicare deductible and premium payments.

Be sure to call ahead to learn what documents you will need to complete your application and to make an appointment. Eligibility is determined by County Social Services according to Federal and State guidelines, and should not take more than 6 weeks to establish, once you have given DSS all of the verifications of property, income, and gifts. A legal consultation with an elder law attorney is advisable before applying to make sure that you are eligible, and if not, what you can do to become eligible for Medi-Cal.

Problems in Application/Appeals Process
If you have been told you do not meet the qualifications for benefits and if you disagree, you should first discuss this with a County Social Worker at the Department of Social Services. If you are still not satisfied, you should get a legal consultation from an elder law attorney. You have the right to appeal your eligibility or any other decision about your Medi-Cal benefits, but it is wise to correct any problem before your appeal. Information about the appeals process should be included with any notice of denial; if not, contact the Department of Social Services. For additional information, contact the California Department of Health Care Services at 800-952-5253.

Qualified Medicare Beneficiary, “QMB”, Specified Low-Income Medicare Beneficiary “SLMB” or Qualified Individual or “QI.”

The Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB), the Specified Low-Income Medicare Beneficiary (SLMB), and Qualified Individual programs were created by federal law requiring that State Medicaid (Medi-Cal) programs pay Medicare costs for certain elderly and disabled persons with low incomes and very limited assets.

An individual who has Medi-Cal in addition to Medicare is already getting the QMB benefit. Eligible individuals do NOT have to pay the monthly Medicare premium, the deductible for Part A Hospital and Part B Medical benefits, the daily coinsurance charges for hospital stays beyond 60 days, the co-payments for skilled nursing care beyond 20 days and the 20 percent coinsurance for Medicare-covered services. In most cases, if you are eligible for the QMB benefit, you DO NOT need to purchase additional health insurance.

To be eligible your financial resources, such as bank accounts, stocks, and bonds, cannot exceed $4,000 for one person or $6,000 for a couple. The home in which you live, one automobile, burial plot, home furnishings, personal jewelry and some life insurance usually do not count as resources.

If you do not qualify for QMB assistance because your income is too high, you may be able to get help under the SLMB program. The SLMB program is for persons whose incomes are slightly higher than the national poverty level, but not more than 120 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. In 2012 the income level for one person is $1,117 a month and for a couple it is $1,513 a month. If you qualify for assistance under the SLMB program, the State is required to pay the Medicare Part B monthly premium for you. You will continue to be responsible for Medicare’s deductibles and coinsurance and for charges for health care services and items not covered by Medicare.

One other program allows greater income limits and has some benefits of paying all of the Medicare Part B premiums. This program is known as Qualifying Individual (QI). The QI income limit for one person is $1,257 and $1,702 for a couple in 2012. If you have questions about these programs, contact the Department of Social Services. The amount of income you may have and be eligible for the QMB, SLMB or QI programs will increase in future years. If you have income over the current dollar amounts, you should check in the future to see if you have become eligible. If you think you may be eligible for any of these benefits, contact the County Department of Social Services.

Planning for Long Term Care Needs

The California Partnership for Long Term Care is an insurance option available to a person who is planning for their long term care needs. This is a partnership between the state of California, the private insurance companies, and the consumer.

The purpose of the California Partnership is to 1) offer affordable LTCI insurance to moderate and middle income consumers; 2) by example and consumer education improve the quality of long-term care insurance; 3) reduce the government expenditures for long-term care expenses by providing an incentive for individuals to purchase policies. This is the Medi-Cal asset protection equal to the dollar value of insurance benefits received.

All long-term care policies marketed in California must meet certain consumer standards established by state law. The California Partnership policies have additional standards that must be met to be marketed under the partnership plan. All Partnership policies must use the same set of criteria to determine eligibility for benefits. There is a minimum daily benefit guaranteed to provide meaningful coverage. Automatic inflation protection is mandatory. Independent care management agencies must provide assessment and care plans for consumer. There are limitations on future rate increases, and an option that allows you to “step down” your coverage if your financial situation changes making it impossible to pay the current premium. You may designate another person to be notified if you fail to pay premiums within 30 days of the due date. One dollar of your assets will be protected for every dollar a Partnership policy pays out in benefits in the event that you will later need to apply for Medi-Cal benefits to continue paying for your long-term care.

You must be a California resident when you purchase a Partnership approved LTCI policy, but you may use the benefits out-side of California. When and if you would need to apply for Medicaid (Medi-Cal in California) and take advantage of the asset protection, you would need to be a California resident to protect your assets under this contract.

Insurers are required to document the long-term care benefits that have been paid on your behalf and to verify the amount of assets that have been protected. A report is sent quarterly to the policyholder showing what benefits apply to the asset protection.

When there is a couple and one spouse must go into a nursing home and the other spouse remains in the community, the community spouse may retain a certain amount of assets ($113,640 in 2012) and a certain amount of monthly income ($2,841) without affecting the eligibility for Medi-Cal of the nursing home spouse. When the nursing home spouse has a Partnership policy, he/she may maintain additional protected assets equal to the qualified benefits that have been paid by the Partnership policy. This is in addition to the assets allowed to the community spouse.

Policies may be purchased to cover only the amount of assets that need to be protected. The minimum coverage would cover assets to equal the cost of one year in a nursing home. Coverage may be for 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 years or lifetime.

Two types of policies are offered by the Partnership. Nursing Home and Assisted Living will cover care in a nursing home or a residential care facility. The second type of policy is the Comprehensive plan which covers nursing home, residential care facility, and home care benefits in the policyholder’s home.

Evaluating and planning for your long term care needs is very complex and is something that each individual should take enough time to understand the many options that are available. The California Partnership for long term care insurance is only one option that a person may wish to consider.

If you cannot afford to pay for long-term care insurance, or if the person who needs insurance already has a diagnosis which will lead to a denial of the application, consult with an attorney experienced in Medi-Cal long-term care planning.

If you have further questions about assessing your needs for long term care insurance and other methods of planning for these needs, you may contact the Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP) to meet with a HICAP counselor to discuss your individual questions. This is a free service and counseling is done by trained, registered HICAP volunteer counselors. Call 800-434-0222 for an appointment.

Check Your Credit History
One of the best ways to protect yourself from identity theft is to monitor your credit history. Starting December 2004, Californians are able to get one free credit report each year from each of the three national credit bureaus: Equifax, Experian and Trans Union.

Checking your credit reports at least once a year is a good way to detect signs of identity theft early. The sooner identity theft is discovered, the easier it is to clear up. Checking your credit reports also lets you identify errors that could be raising the cost of credit. California residents can order a free credit report through a toll-free phone number, a web site or by mailing a standard order form.

www.annualcreditreport.com, 877-322-8228
Mail order form to: Annual Credit Report Request Service P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281

You will have the option of requesting all three reports at once or staggering them. You could create a no-cost version of a credit monitoring service. Just order a free report from one credit bureau, then four months later from another, and four months after that from the third bureau. (That approach won’t give a complete picture at any one time. Not all creditors provide information to all the bureaus. Monitoring services from the credit bureaus cost between $44. to $100. per year.)

To check your reports for errors or possible signs of identity theft, look particularly at three areas:

1. Look in the person information or personal data section. Look for addresses where you have never lived. Make sure your name and any variations of it, your social security number and your employers are correct.

2. Look in the Accounts section. Look for any accounts you didn’t open. Look for balances on your legitimate accounts that are higher than you expect.

3. Look for inquiries or request for your credit history that you didn’t make. There are two types of inquiries. ‘Regular’ or ‘hard’ inquiries are the ones that result when you apply for credit or when an account is transferred to a collection agency. This is the kind of inquiry you should check as possible identity theft or error. The other type, ‘promotional’ or ‘soft’ inquiries, would not be an indication of problems. This type includes pre-approved credit offers, checks for employment purposes, account monitoring by your existing creditors and your own request for your report.

You can view sample credit reports, with the different sections explained, on the web sites of the three credit bureaus: Experian Sample Report, Trans Union Sample Report, Equifax Sample Report.

If you see anything you believe is incorrect, contact the credit bureau immediately. You can call the telephone number on the report to speak with someone at the credit bureau. If you find evidence of identity theft, the next steps to take include contacting any creditors involved to close fraudulent accounts and filing a police report.

Rehabilitative/Therapeutic Services

Rehabilitation centers provide professional restorative care designed to help people who have been disabled due to illness, accident, or injury.

Rehabilitation services fall into the following three categories: (1) in-patient hospital care; (2) out-patient care (the patient visits the facility for treatment but does not stay overnight.); and (3) in-home services (treatment is given in the patient’s home).

Medicare will pay for medical rehabilitation costs if the patient has the potential for rehabilitation, the expectation for improvement is reasonable, and certain types of skilled care are required. Medicare Part A covers services for in-patient and home-bound persons; Part B covers 80% of out-patient costs. A physician’s referral is required.

Medicare covers the full cost of in-home visits by rehabilitation therapists when the patient is homebound, has rehabilitation potential, and the agency making service available is a Medicare Certified Home Health Agency.

Hearing
Since hearing loss may be related to a number of causes you may want to begin with a visit to a licensed physician or a specialist in diseases of the ear for a thorough examination. An audimetric examination will be an important part of the procedure. In-depth audiological testing intended to evaluate the nature and degree of hearing loss is reimbursable by Medicare at 80% of the approved charges after the deductible has been met.

Medicare does not cover hearing aids or routine hearing examinations directly related to the prescribing, fitting, or changing of hearing aids. Medicare may cover hearing aid costs if a medical evaluation from a physician has been obtained, and if the need has been verified.

Medi-Cal and some supplemental insurance policies will cover hearing testing by an audiologist and any medically necessary hearing aids. Check with a CenCal representative or with your supplement insurance company.

Definitions
Ear, Nose and Throat (ENT) physicians specialize in the care of these areas of the body. Otolaryngologist and otorhinolaryngologist are also technical terms for ENT physicians.

Audiologists have advanced training in testing and evaluation of hearing. They can prescribe individual hearing aids. Some audiologists also fill prescriptions for hearing aids.

Hearing Aid Company Representatives often offer free hearing tests; however, they are usually not audiologists.

Television Caption Decoding
Many prime time television programs are now produced with closed captions. Closed caption is written dialogue that can be read on the T.V. screen by those with serious hearing loss. The device can be purchased locally and attached to a T.V.

Telephone Services

Deaf and Disabled Telecommunications Program are a program of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Stockton, CA 95213
800-806-1191

TTY 800-806-4474

CTAP offers specialized telephone equipment and network services at no cost to qualified California residents who have difficulty using the telephone. Eligibility includes being certified as having at least one of the following disabilities either temporarily or permanently: deaf/deafened, hard of hearing, cognitive, mobility, blind/low vision, and speech.

California Relay Service

Communicating with deaf and some hard-of-hearing people via a standard telephone can be difficult. Although many deaf and hard-of-hearing people have electronic telephone devices, referred to as TTY or TDD, that allow them to type their messages to others with similar devices, few hearing households and businesses have the telephone equipment to communicate with those devices.

The California Relay Service addresses this need. Hearing callers trying to contact the deaf by telephone call an operator who will assist with the call. The operator acts as a middleman in an otherwise normal telephone call. You talk to the operator, the operator types your dialogue, the call recipient reads the message and types back and the operator reads the message to you. Using the system is simple. www.ddtp.org

There are three ways to access a CRS operator:

1. Dial 7-1-1
2. Dial the DDTP dedicated toll free numbers:

Urinary Incontinence

An involuntary loss of bladder control, urinary incontinence is estimated to affect more than 20 million Americans. Unfortunately, most people who experience incontinence are either unaware that anything can be done, or are too embarrassed to seek help.

Incontinence is not a disease. Most incontinence can be cured or greatly improved after proper diagnosis. Many treatments such as bladder training, medications, pelvic muscle exercises, surgery and outpatient procedures involving collagen injections, have been successful in restoring and enhancing bladder control.

Incontinence is a symptom with many causes, so it is important to seek treatment from a physician who specializes in treating incontinence. For more information on incontinence and/or reference to a specialist in your area, call the Bladder Control Hotline at 800-BLADDER (800-252-3337).

Home Health Care
Home health agencies provide Skilled Nursing, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Speech Therapy and Home Health Aides as prescribed by a physician.
Home health agencies may be profit or nonprofit organizations. Some are hospital-based and serve as an outpatient extension for care needed at home after hospitalization. Others are free standing organizations. They must be licensed and certified by Medicare to entitle patients to receive benefits under Medicare and Medi-Cal. Medicare pays for home health services for patients when the following conditions are met:

1. In need of skilled nursing or therapy services
2. Medical status qualifies him or her as homebound, simply meaning it is taxing to get out or can’t get out without help. Patients are still considered homebound even if they go out for medical appointments.
3. A face-to-face encounter related to the primary reason for home health occurs 90 days prior or 30 days after the start of home health care.
4. The home health agency serving you is certified by Medicare.

Medicare benefits for the homebound patient are paid for under Part A (Hospital). Medi-Cal also pays for some home health services provided by certified home health agencies. Discuss the benefits with the home health agency that you call.

A patient’s physician may make suggestions about a particular agency. Discharge planning departments in hospitals can also help with referrals. Even if a hospital has its own home health agency, you are not obligated to utilize it. The choice is always yours. Look in the telephone directory Yellow Pages under “Home Health Services” for a listing of private agencies or telephone Senior Connection at 800-510-2020 or 928-2552.

Hospice
Hospice focuses on maximizing the quality of life for the terminally ill patient and providing emotional support to the patient and family.

Two models of hospice care are available. The first model provides hospice care under the Medicare benefit and are listed below under Certified Hospice programs. The second model is a volunteer based program that focuses on counseling and addresses the emotional and spiritual needs of the patient and family.

Certified Hospice
The philosophy of a certified hospice program is to provide the highest quality medical, psychological, emotional and spiritual care to individuals with a life threatening illness. The focus of certified hospice is pain and symptom control to alleviate suffering. This allows individuals to live as fully as possible, with the support of family and friends. Services are reimbursed by Medicare, Medi-Cal, and private insurance.

I believe that better care begins at home.

We believe in compassionate care. We believe in industry-leading excellence. And we believe there’s no place like home for healing. Maybe that’s why so many patients and physicians turn to us every day for skilled nursing, rehabilitation and therapy services.

For more information, call (805) 544-4402 or visit www.gentiva.com

Out of Home Respite
Temporary respite care or permanent long-term care may become necessary when independent or assisted living is not possible.

When a person cannot continue to live in their own home, a decision must be made about the level of care which is the most appropriate. The following is a brief description of the two possible choices in Santa Barbara County.

Residential Care Facilities
Also known as “assisted living” or “board and care,” residential care facilities provide room and board, some personal care assistance, monitoring of medication taking, and social opportunities. They are for people who can no longer live at home, yet do not need professional nursing care. These facilities are licensed and monitored by the State Department of Social Services.

Skilled Nursing Facilities
Also known as “nursing homes” or “convalescent hospitals,” nursing facilities provide professional nursing services on a 24 hour basis as prescribed by the patient’s physician. In addition to medical nursing care, physical, occupational, and other therapies can be provided. These facilities are licensed by the State Department of Public Health.

They can answer many questions that you may have about long-term care, provide you with a list of in-county facilities and/or out-of-county referrals, and advocate on behalf of anyone who is already in a long-term care facility.

Other sources of assistance for placement include hospital discharge planners for persons who are about to leave the hospital and home assessment case management programs if in-home evaluations are needed. A listing of the residential care facilities and skilled nursing facilities is also available from the Long Term Care Ombudsman of Santa Barbara County at 922-1236.
Problems with Residential Care/Skilled Nursing Care Facilities
If there is a problem with the care someone is receiving in a residential care or skilled nursing facility, an attempt should be made first to resolve it with the facility’s administration. If the problem cannot be resolved, you can contact:

Long-Term Care Ombudsman Services
Ombudsman Services investigates and resolves, when possible, complaints made by or on behalf of residents in residential care or skilled nursing facilities. Ombudsman Services is also officially designated by the state to receive and investigate reports of abuse in long-term care facilities.

Housing which is affordable, available and adequate is extremely limited in Santa Barbara County. The following section describes some of the programs available to assist you with housing.

Low Cost Rentals

Federally Subsidized Housing

Housing Authorities develop and manage federally financed public housing projects and other below-market housing developments, and provide these units on a rental basis to eligible low income persons and families. There are two Housing Authorities located in Santa Barbara County: the Housing Authority of the City of Santa Barbara, and the Housing Authority of the County of Santa Barbara. It is important to apply for assistance with both agencies.

Both Housing Authorities also administer the Section 8 Housing Choice Voucher Program which provides rental subsidies to low-income individuals and families.

Because the demand for subsidized housing is very high in Santa Barbara County, both the City and County Housing Authorities have long waiting lists and enrollment for certain programs is not always open. Contact each agency for specific details about their programs and waiting lists.

Waiting List Tips

Many apartment projects, both subsidized and non-subsidized, have long waiting lists. Don’t be discouraged! If they will take your name, give it. Waiting lists sometimes move surprisingly fast. Being number 400 on a list doesn’t necessarily mean that there are actually 400 people ahead of you. Many people have already found a place to live, moved out of the area or are no longer interested in the apartment.

1. There is no limit to the number of waiting lists you can put your name on. It is best to sign up on several lists to increase your likelihood of receiving assistance.
2. Make sure that you keep the project informed of your current address and telephone number. One reason lists move quickly is that people cannot be reached easily when there is a vacancy.
3. Check back regularly, but don’t be a pest. Let them know you are still interested.

Other Financial Assistance

Alexander House Foundation

P.O. Box 23642
Santa Barbara, CA 93121
966-3665

Provides financial assistance for housing for the elderly, 65 and over, on a fixed income and at least a 10-year resident.

Reverse Mortgages

A Reverse Mortgage allows you to borrow against the equity in your home to provide you with tax-free income. You continue to own your home and live in it for the life of your loan. You typically make no loan payments, as the Reverse Mortgage becomes due only when you sell your home or move out of it.

A Reverse Mortgage operates in an opposite manner from a conventional mortgage. With a conventional mortgage, your equity grows and your debt shrinks as you repay the lender. In a Reverse Mortgage, your equity shrinks and your debt grows as the lender pays you.

Money obtained from a Reverse Mortgage can be distributed in a number of ways:

- As a single lump sum of cash.
- As regular monthly payments.
- As a credit line that lets you decide how much and when to draw it.
- As a combination of these payment plans.

Why get one?

A Reverse Mortgage makes sense for some homeowners. It’s a way of cashing in on that hard-earned equity that you’ve been building over the years. It can provide you with the extra income you need.

Some homeowners use the money to repair or remodel their homes. Some spend it on traveling. Others use the money to pay off debts, medical expenses or home care. Some want a line of credit they can draw upon as needed for unplanned expenses or extra luxuries.

A Reverse Mortgage provides other advantages for some homeowners, including:

- You get to keep your home. As long as you abide by the loan requirements, you can never lose your home.
- You can never owe more than the value of your home. Although your debt grows larger the longer your loan lasts, it can never grow larger than the selling price of your home.
- You never have to repay your loan during the life of the loan.
- Your income is not a consideration in obtaining the loan since you make no payments.
- The money you receive is tax-free, since it is not considered “income.”

Why NOT get one?

A Reverse Mortgage is not right for everyone. It can have significant disadvantages for some homeowners. These disadvantages need to be carefully weighed against the advantages.

Some reasons NOT to get a Reverse Mortgage include:

- It is more complicated than conventional mortgages and often not well understood, even by loan and legal professionals.
- It could have adverse tax consequences for some homeowners.
- These are very expensive loans and consumers need to be aware of all the costs.
- It could affect your eligibility for public assistance.
- It could have a negative impact on the estate your heirs will inherit.
- It could be a bad investment if you end up defaulting on the loan or need to move too soon (within a few years of the loan’s closing.) Because a Reverse Mortgage has substantial start-up costs, the longer you delay repayment, the better your investment becomes.
- Other solutions may be available and cost much less.
How to decide?
The best way to decide if a Reverse Mortgage is right for you is to consult a Reverse Mortgage professional. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) can help you find a HUD-approved Reverse Mortgage counselor that you should consult BEFORE you contact a lender. This is so important that most lenders will require that you have a certificate showing that you have consulted with a counselor before they will approve your loan!

HUD-approved Reverse Mortgage counselors in California are with the SurePath Financial Solutions (formerly CCCS) at 877-615-7873 (SURE). If you cannot locate a counselor within driving distance, you can consult one by phone.

Not all counselors are equally knowledgeable, so it’s a good idea to ask them how long they have been doing Reverse Mortgage counseling and how many clients they have worked with. Often this counseling is free of charge, but sometimes a small fee is required (usually around $75). However, what you learn from this service is, as the saying goes, “priceless.”

A good counselor will:
• Be unbiased, independent, and protect your privacy.
• Disclose all your options and help you decide what is right for you. There will be no pressure to apply for a Reverse Mortgage.
• Give you a “Personal Reverse Mortgage Analysis,” and a written comparison of all the Reverse Mortgage programs available in your area.
• Provide you with a “HUD Certificate of HECM Counseling,” which some lenders will require before giving you a Reverse Mortgage.

Shared Housing
Home sharing by two or more people is becoming increasingly practical. In the absence of programs which offer this service, what follows are some tips on finding a shared housing situation. Some assisted and independent living communities offer this as well.

Tips on Shared Housing
1. Spread the word among your friends that you are looking for a roommate or a room in someone’s house. It’s possible that they know of someone who can help you.

2. Look in the classified ads in your local newspaper under “Roommates” or “Situation Wanted.” People are sometimes willing to exchange services such as cooking and cleaning for rent.

3. If you choose to advertise for a roommate, it is wise to rent a P.O. Box for replies from prospective roommates. Ask for references and check them.

4. Be clear with applicants about what life styles and behavior are acceptable to you. You may consider drawing up a contract specifying such practical matters as when the rent is due, cleaning deposit information, etc. If you are exchanging services for rent, outline in writing what services you expect.

5. Talk to assisted and independent communities and see if they may have this option.

The housing offices at the colleges sometimes have students, faculty or staff who are offering a service in exchange for rent. Occasionally a student looking for long-term housing prefers living with a senior citizen for a stable and quiet atmosphere.

Foreclosure Fraud
Avoiding Mortgage Fraud
Mortgage fraud is becoming increasingly common. Scam artists often target homeowners struggling to meet their mortgage commitments or anxious to sell their homes.

There is help available when facing financial problems or foreclosure, but make sure you are dealing with a reputable organization before getting involved. To protect your home and...
Scam artists are very crafty and will often vary the scheme depending on the homeowner they are talking to, so be cautious. Some warning signs that a scam artist may be trying to set you up as a victim of a foreclosure rescue scheme include:

- Being approached by a stranger with an unsolicited “rescue” offer.
- Receiving an unsolicited call, mail or flyer about “foreclosure rescue” or saving your home.
- Participating in a complicated deal that you don’t fully understand.
- Signing documents that have blanks or false statements. Regardless of what you are told, this is never okay.

The best solution when you face financial difficulties that may endanger your home is always to talk to your lender or a reputable counselor.

Illegal Flipping

Flipping is a legitimate practice where an investor purchases a property in need of repairs or upgrades, makes the necessary changes to the property in a very short amount of time and sells the home for a profit. We’ve all seen the TV shows about flipping and they’re fun to watch. But there are scam artists who use flipping to make money illegally.

Often times, the scam artist will offer much more than the asking price of a home with a stipulation that the “surplus” amount over the asking price is given back to the borrower at closing. At closing, the inflated value of the home will be attributed to home improvements that were never made. The scam artist will pocket that and default on the loan.

As a homeowner, especially one whose house has been on the market a long time, this may seem like an attractive deal but remember – falsifying documents is fraud.
INCOME ASSISTANCE

Social Security Administration

The Social Security Administration is responsible for a number of programs that can offer financial assistance:

Social Security Retirement Benefits

Retirement benefits are payable as early as age 62 for a worker who has Social Security credit for at least 10 years of work. Benefits are permanently reduced for each month of early benefits before the full retirement age of 66. The amount of a Social Security benefit is based on the average amount of the worker’s earnings in jobs covered by Social Security over a 35 year period. To assist in financial planning, a free benefit estimate, social security statement, retirement calculators, and other tools are available online at www.socialsecurity.gov. Monthly benefits are also paid to eligible spouses, divorced spouses (if the marriage lasted at least 10 years), children under 18, and adult children who were disabled before age 22. File online at www.socialsecurity.gov or call 800-772-1213 to start the application process.

Medicare

At age 65 most people are eligible for Medicare coverage regardless of their retirement status. Medicare will also start automatically after two years of entitlement to disability benefits. Medicare health insurance will help pay for medical expenses including doctor and hospital charges. Apply for Medicare up to three months before reaching age 65 at www.socialsecurity.gov or 800-772-1213.

Supplemental Security Income Program (SSI)

The Social Security Administration also handles a program that provides monthly financial assistance to persons in financial need who are 65 or older, blind, or disabled who have limited income and assets. A recipient must be a citizen, refugee, or a permanent legal immigrant who meets certain eligibility requirements.

A person may be eligible for SSI benefits even if he or she receives a small Social Security check or other income. If a person is eligible for SSI, s/he will also receive Medi-Cal.

Call Social Security at 800-772-1213 to learn more about SSI, or to begin the application process.

10. Are home visits a necessary/important service component?

14. Does the company provide regular reporting to clients on claims activity, e.g. monthly or quarterly? Does it supply year-end summaries for tax purposes?
15. Are the company’s activity reports clean and comprehensible to you? Ask for a sample.
16. Will the company keep on file all of the paper documentation that it receives?
17. Ask the company detailed questions about their fees and make sure you understand when, for what and how much you will be billed.

Guide to Financial Planning Assistance

Why Do I Need a Financial Planner?
The reasons people seek out a financial planner are many. Questions vary:
- Have I adequately planned for my elder years?
- Am I purchasing the right type and amount of life, disability, long-term-care and Medicare supplemental insurance?
- Are my life insurance beneficiary designations correct and advantageous?
- Are my investments right for me?
- Am I comfortable with the investment decisions I’ve been making? If I were to become disabled or incompetent, is there anyone who knows enough about my financial affairs to properly advise my family?
- Do I know what my family’s financial obligations and resources will be as a result of my death or disability?
- Are my estate planning documents in order and consistent with my wishes?

How To Recognize Vision Loss in Older People
There are certain behaviors that indicate an individual may be experiencing vision loss. Be alert if a person has difficulty in the following areas:

• Performing Daily Activities
• Reading and Writing
• Eating and Drinking
• Moving

If you notice these behaviors, encourage the older person to have an eye examination by an ophthalmologist and a low vision evaluation by a low vision specialist, usually an optometrist with a specialization in low vision. Even if you don’t notice these behaviors, it’s important to encourage every older person to have regular, routine eye care.
Finding an Attorney

Elder law is a special area of law with relatively few practitioners who focus primarily on the issues of aging, incapacity, long term care, estate planning for seniors, public benefits, and/or elder abuse/neglect or financial exploitation. When seeking legal advice relating to issues concerning seniors, finding a knowledgeable, competent attorney is extremely important and yet not so easy as finding an estate planning attorney.

Some specialized resources for finding an elder law attorney are the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys (www.naela.org; 703-942-5711), ElderCounsel (www.eldercounsel.com), and California Advocates for Nursing Home Re-form, known as CANHR (www.canhr.org; 800-474-1116). CANHR also provides free consumer information and assistance both verbally and through their website, and referrals to attorneys whom they have screened for experience in the area. In some cases, CANHR may be able to provide you with a reduced fee by virtue of their referral.

You may also find an attorney through personal recommendations from friends, relatives, co-workers, a support group, or attorneys or CPAs you already know and trust. Individuals who have faced similar problems may already have done the leg-work in tracking down a competent attorney, but be aware that an expert in one field of law may not know about another field of law, so make sure that word-of-mouth recommendations are suitable for your specific needs.

Lawyers Referral Service

15 W. Carrillo, Suite 106
Santa Barbara, CA 93101

Fax 569-2888

The Lawyer Referral Service serves Santa Barbara County with referrals to attorneys who have signed up to be on their panel. For a small fee, the service will make the appointment for you, and a 30 minute consultation is provided. By describing your needs, a referral can be made to an attorney in the area of practice that can most help you. Personal injury referrals are provided at no cost; low income seniors who need a will may receive a free referral.

It is important to check the qualifications of an attorney and to call around and compare fees and experience.

AARP Legal Services Network

Members of AARP can access AARP Legal Services Network. This includes a free initial consultation and reduced fees.

The Yellow Pages of the telephone book have an extensive list of attorneys. There are special sections under “Attorneys” for “Elder Law,” “Social Security Law,” “Health Care and Hospital Law,” “Probate Law,” and “Wills, Trusts and Estate Planning.”

Wherever you get the name of an attorney, if you “google” the name of the lawyer on your computer, you may find a website for that lawyer; or you can call the attorney’s office and ask for their website address or a brochure so that you can learn more about him or her.

Lastly, low or free legal services may also be available depending on income.

Legal document services are not a reliable substitute for a competent attorney because these services cannot legally offer any legal advice on the documents they prepare for you from their standard software programs. Your individualized legal needs can be determined only through a legal consultation with a competent attorney; a missing element of legal document services. Costly legal errors can be made without an attorney’s involvement in the decision-making and tailoring your legal documents to meet your individualized needs.

Online legal drafting services designed for people to draft their own legal documents are also not recommended for the same reason.

Wills
A Will is a document that specifies how you wish to have your assets distributed after you die and designates who will carry out your wishes. A Will is necessary unless all of your assets are in joint tenancy (not the best tax planning) or have designated (named) beneficiaries assigned (e.g. in payable on death designations for life insurance, IRAs, or bank accounts). A Will requires probate court proceedings if your estate has more than $100,000 worth of assets, excluding joint accounts, mobile homes, and/or cars passing under the will. Please note that if you have a Will and/or a revocable living trust, and you have been a Medi-Cal beneficiary, your estate and your trust will be subject to Medi-Cal estate recovery after the death of both spouses.

If you are 60 years of age or older and have liquid assets (not counting your home) of no more than $15,000.00, you may be eligible to have a simple Will prepared for you for $125.00 through the Lawyer Referral Service.

How to Maintain Control Over Your Affairs
People are used to planning for death. They are familiar with traditional estate planning which involves counseling and planning for the disposition of their estate to make sure that their property goes to the people they want to have it and to minimize any post-death taxes.
But too few people plan for disability or incapacity during their lifetime, which is sometimes a more important need than what happens after death.
The consequence of failing to plan is often the loss of control over who will make decisions and how those decisions will be made, as well as whether you will be able to qualify for Medi-Cal or VA pensions. It is far less expensive for you to plan for incapacity than it is for your loved ones to go to court due to your lack of planning if you become incapacitated.

Why Plan?
• To allow financial and health care decisions to be made without the need for court intervention or conservatorship proceedings.
• To ease the financial and emotional burden on spouse or other family members, including through otherwise unnecessary legal fees.
• To have control over who makes your decisions and how they are made.
To register the Advance Health Care Directive or Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care, mail to:

Secretary of State

1500 11th St.
Sacramento, CA 95814

In addition to the Advance Health Care Directive or Five Wishes form, one should also sign a HIPAA Release and Authority form, which authorizes specific persons to get your health care information from your doctors or other health care providers. It is wise to list everyone whom you want to have access to your health care information on this document.

One can sign a POLST (Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment) with your doctor if you want a more explicit order regarding what you do and do not want, not as a substitute for the Advance Health Care Directive, Five Wishes, and HIPAA Release and Authority, but rather in addition to them.

The POLST document (printed on bright ‘ultra pink’ card stock paper) is meant to serve as a physician order that helps frail/chronically ill, terminally ill, Hospice patients, and elderly (persons age 80 and older) have more control over their end of life care. POLST enables you to specify the treatments (CPR, medical interventions, and nutrition) that you do or do not want to receive toward your end of life. Completing a POLST form is voluntary; however, California law requires that once the form is completed, it must be followed by all health care providers.

Conservatorship of the Person

Conservatorship of the person is a public legal process for assuming control over an incapacitated individual’s personal (non-financial) affairs, including health care decisions. The conservator is responsible for making sure the conservatee is properly fed, clothed, housed, cared for, and medically treated. The Conservatorship is usually the last alternative considered and is often not necessary if one has signed the health care documents listed above, but it may be necessary if the person is already unable to manage his or her own daily activities, care needs, and health decisions. A court hearing is required before a conservator can be appointed. Legal expenses are high. A well-drafted and current Advance Health Care Directive or Five Wishes and HIPAA Release and Authority can avoid the need to go to court for a conservatorship in most cases, if they were executed when the person was competent.

When the court decides who will be the Conservator of the Person, a family member is preferred if available. Where no family member is available or capable of serving as Conservator of the Person, the Public Guardian is the conservator of last resort for frail elderly and brain-impaired adults.

A Living (Revocable) Trust

A trust created during your lifetime can provide for management of your trust property during your lifetime, avoidance of probate after your death, avoidance of Conservatorship during your life, minimization of taxes after your death, and the protection of privacy. A living revocable trust is a legal document through which a person called the Trustee (generally the person who set up the trust and provide the funds for the trust) takes title to property (real estate, financial accounts, etc.). For example, If you own your own home, you can transfer your home to yourself as trustee of your own trust. The trust document will specify how property is to be used during your life and who is to receive the assets of the trust after your death. The powers granted in the trust and the powers granted in the Durable Power of Attorney should be consistent. A living trust does not protect a home or other assets from Medi-Cal estate recovery. Consult an attorney with current experience in Medi-Cal law to protect the home for Medi-Cal purposes.

Declaration of Homestead

Persons who own their own home may be able to protect a portion of the equity value, in the event of a forced sale in order to satisfy unpaid debts, by preparing and recording a declaration of homestead. This cannot protect from Medi-Cal estate recovery.

Conservatorship of the Estate

Similar to the Conservatorship of the person, this allows for the management of a disabled person’s money and other property. Court proceedings to designate a conservator are required. This is usually the last method considered, but may be necessary if the individual is already unable to manage his or her own affairs. A well-drafted Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management can avoid the need for a conservatorship of the estate in most cases, if signed when the person still has legal capacity.
Public Benefits

Medicare and Medi-Cal
Planning for public benefits such as Medi-Cal (a needs-based program) may be desirable if an elder needs long-term care in a skilled nursing facility or in-home care. Medicare is not a needs-based program but is a national insurance program with a monthly premium for persons over 65 who worked 40 or more quarters at a job that paid into Social Security and Medicare, or persons who are disabled or blind. Coverage for skilled nursing facilities is very restricted and will be denied unless the patient was in a hospital for the same condition for 72 hours in the previous 30 days, and is receiving at least 5 days per week of skilled nursing services (physical therapy, speech therapy, occupational therapy, IV therapy, and/or other skilled services, but not just assistance with activities of daily living such as eating, toileting, bathing, dressing, transferring, or 24/7 supervision due to cognitive impairment). Medi-Cal does not have these restrictions and will provide coverage so long as the countable assets are below a certain amount.

Where Medicare is the provider, some Medicare supplemental insurance plans cover all or part of the co-pay, but only if Medi-icare or a Medicare HMO is paying part. Long-term care insurance policies may cover all or part of long-term custodial care bills, but policies vary widely and should be carefully chosen for these options.

Because Medicare covers so little and so few seniors have private long-term care insurance, many middle class couples or individuals may have to plan for and rely on Medi-Cal benefits. Through experienced legal advice and planning strategies that comply with the law, middle class couples and individuals may qualify for Medi-Cal without impoverishing themselves. It is important that Medi-Cal planning be done with the assistance of an attorney who is current with the ever-evolving Medi-Cal law to ensure the spouse needing skilled care is adequately cared for and the spouse residing outside the facility has the resources for his or her support. Even for most middle class couples and individuals, the high cost of skilled nursing facility care ($7,092 per month average in California, or about $9,500-$10,500 average in the Central Coast) makes paying for nursing homes without Medi-Cal financially impossible.

Medi-Cal long term care planning is a specialized area with complex rules. Make sure that you get up-to-date legal advice from an attorney with current training and experience in Medi-Cal. Strategies that were allowable in previous years may create problems once new laws are implemented. Many middle class persons can qualify for Medi-Cal with experienced advice and/or a court order. In most cases, the home can be legally protected from a Medi-Cal estate recovery claim if done prior to the death of the Medi-Cal beneficiary.

Planning for Medi-Cal Benefits
The most up-to-date, comprehensive source of consumer information about Medi-Cal and nursing homes in California is Cali-fornia Advocates for Nursing Home Reform, a nonprofit organization that also provides free consumer information by phone: 800-474-1116. 650 Harrison Street, 2nd Floor, San Francisco, CA 94107, www.canhr.org, an excellent website. CANHR also has referral panels of screened attorneys in estate planning, Medi-Cal, and elder abuse. The best nonprofit group for Medicare information is www.medicareadvocacy.org. For nonprofit consumer information and education relating to estate planning, annuities, reverse mortgages, and many other topics, go to www.help-4srs.org. Another valuable website is www.elderlawanswers.org.

The high cost of long-term care is a major problem for all middle class and low income Americans. When a family member actually experiences the need for long-term care, either because of dementia or other illness, the problem of financing long-term care becomes a real issue for family members. Because custodial care alone (assistance with activities of daily living) is not covered under Medicare, and because few elders have adequate long term care insurance policies due to the exorbitant premiums or the widespread denial rate of applications, Medi-Cal has become the primary source of payment for nursing home care by both low income and middle class families.

The eligibility rules are complex, and many individuals and couples are surprised to learn that they qualify for Medi-Cal in spite of owning high-value retirement accounts or real estate. Never assume that you cannot qualify, even if you are initially turned down. See a competent attorney with up-to-date training and experience in Medi-Cal to availing yourself of the current laws to prevent the impoverishment of the at-home spouse or to accelerate an individual’s eligibility. Medi-Cal eligibility and co-pay are based on examination of all property and income available to the applicant and the spouse.

Resources (Property) Considered for Medi-Cal Applications

An individual in a skilled nursing facility can have $2,000 in countable resources at the time of application and ongoing. In 2012, that individual’s spouse who is not in a skilled nursing facility and who is not applying for benefits for anyone other than the spouse in the nursing home can retain an additional minimum of $113,640 in countable resources at the time of application. (A judge’s order can increase this resource limit to well above $113,640. It is simply not true that spending as-sets down is the only route to Medi-Cal qualification. (See below.) All property, community, joint, separate, in a revocable living trust, or in some Irrevocable trusts, is counted in the total resources. The home, one car, retirement accounts, immediate annuities, and some other resources are not countable for an individual or a couple. The rest is countable.

Example: John and Mary have $100,000 in a joint savings account. John has an IRA of $200,000. Mary has a $60,000 CD in her own name. John enters a nursing home. Normally, John can be eligible for Medi-Cal as soon as they spend their total countable resources ($160,000, since the IRA does not count) down to $113,640, which is the resource allowance for Mary, plus $2,000, which is the Medi-Cal property limit for John (in addition to his IRA). However, if Mary’s fixed income in her own name is less than $2,841/month (gross), she can get her resource allowance increased to an amount exceeding the standard $113,640 through a court petition. The amount of increase is determined by Mary’s gross income and by the going short-term CD rate. The lower Mary’s income is, and the lower the going 6-month CD rate is, the higher the amount of assets that Mary can keep above and beyond the standard $113,640. This could be hundreds of thousands of dollars more in some cases, but it will require a court procedure, which is almost always unopposed. A lawyer is required for a court order, as these are complicated cases. Although an administrative law judge can also grant an increase in the well spouse’s resource allowance, the amount that can be granted will always be significantly higher in court than in an administrative law hearing (a fair hearing).

Physical Separation of Assets after Medi-Cal Approval

Within 90 days of Medi-Cal approval, the institutionalized spouse’s name must be removed from all assets in the community spouse resource allowance.

In John and Mary’s case, for example, Mary must take John’s name off all of the assets (with the exception of the $2,000 and his non-countable IRA) and keep it in her name. If she wants to have a living trust, she will need to have a new trust drafted rather than using the couple’s living trust. Otherwise, it will be considered “available” to John. A court order may be necessary to do this if John has lost capacity to sign the transfer documents.

Court Order for Medi-Cal Purposes

In some circumstances, a court order can be obtained to allow the spouse who is not in a nursing home to retain resources over the standard community spouse resource allowance, $113,640.

Example: John and Mary have $200,000 in a joint account or in a revocable living trust account. John enters a nursing home. Normally, John would be eligible for Medi-Cal only after they spend down to $113,640 for Mary and $2,000 for John.

However, if one spouse lacks mental capacity, and the spouse who is not in a skilled nursing facility has less than $2,841/month in fixed income (Social Security, pensions, required minimum distributions for retirement accounts such as IRAs, and annuity income), the spouse who has capacity can hire an attorney to obtain a court order authorizing an increase in the community spouse resource allowance in order to generate the monthly income allowable. Thus, Mary could retain more than the $113,640 resource allowance, sometimes hundreds of thousands of dollars more.

Income

In 2012, the community spouse (at home or in an assisted living facility) will be able to keep all of the couples’ $2,841/month. This amount is adjusted annually. If the fixed income of the community spouse is less than $2,841/month, a court petition can be filed to increase the resources to generate a total of $2,841/month.

Example 1: John is in a skilled nursing home and Mary lives at home or in an assisted living facility. John receives a pension and Social Security of $3,000/month. Mary receives Social Security of $841/month.

Since Mary is allowed a minimum income of $2,841/month, $2,000 of John’s income could be allocated to her to bring her up to $2,841. Mary

Your Home and Medi-Cal
The primary home of any value is currently an exempt asset, and its value will not be counted for the purposes of determining an applicant’s eligibility. After the new rules are implemented in California, then the home equity must be less than approxi-mately $750,000 plus a cost of living increase. We anticipate that equity will remain defined as tax assessed value minus encumbrances or appraised value minus encumbrances, whichever is LESS. Under both the old rules and the new rules when implemented, the home is vulnerable to a Medi-Cal estate recovery claim after the death of the Medi-Cal recipient and any spouse unless the home is protected by being properly transferred prior to the death of the Medi-Cal recipient. The current law in California allows for an exempt asset such as the primary home to be transferred to anybody without any penalty or loss of eligibility, but certain other documents and notifications must be done at the same time for Medi-Cal purposes.

Further, there are ways to transfer the home that will retain certain property tax and estate tax benefits for the donee, and ways that will incur tax disadvantages. An attorney who understands the current Medi-Cal rules is necessary to transfer the home in a fashion to meet all of the goals (both Medi-Cal goals and tax goals). We anticipate that a Medi-Cal beneficiary will still be able to transfer the home without penalty after the new rules, but that cannot be ensured until we see the new rules.

There is a common misconception in the media and in the grapevine that Medi-Cal is a “loan” because an estate recovery claim is possible after the deaths of both spouses. In fact, Medi-Cal for a nursing home immediately reduces the nursing home resident’s bill by at least 50%, if not more. Further, a Medi-Cal estate recovery claim is preventable in almost 100% of the cases. See an elder law attorney as soon as possible after someone qualifies for Medi-Cal, and at the latest before making any changes in title. Whatever legal steps available to be taken (including but not limited to transfer of a home) must be done prior to the death of the Medi-Cal beneficiary.

Other Legal Services
There are several options available if you are involved in a dispute with your neighbor or you feel that someone owes you money. Mediation services are available if you are involved in a landlord/tenant dispute, See Rental Housing Mediation Task Force.

Many other consumer groups are available to assist you in resolving problems. See Consumer Complaints & Information, before you resort to legal action.

Small Claims Court
If you are involved in a dispute with your landlord over a deposit, any dispute where someone owes you money, or you desire the return of property that belongs to you, Small Claims Court is designed for you. Attorneys are not allowed to represent ei-ther side at the hearing. An attorney, however, can assist you in preparing your case. The maximum amount of money that an individual natural person can sue for is $10,000. The maximum for a business is $5,000. If your claim is larger, you may consider hiring an attorney to take your case to a higher court.

You file your suit in Small Claims Court either in the district where the problem occurred or in the district where the defendant (the person you are suing) resides.

For more information (offers small claims procedural advice, no legal advice given), contact your local Small Claims Advisor (by phone only) or www.sbcourts.org:

Immigration
With the passage of welfare reform in 1996, the citizenship status of individu-als is an important determinant of eligibility for publicly funded programs. Some programs that are means tested and available to senior citizens may be restricted to permanent legal residents and/or citizens.

As a result, many elderly and disabled non-citizens legal immigrants currently receiving SSI may lose these benefits, unless they are legal immigrants under certain limited circumstances. To retain eligibility for some programs, persons with legal status should consider citizenship. The citizenship process includes exams, processing, interview, and an oath ceremony.

The steps to citizenship include: 1) Naturalization process; 2) Interview preparation with the INS; 3) Interview; and 4) Naturalization ceremony.

Mental Health is more than the absence of mental illness; it is a state/condition characterized by a general sense of well-being, satisfying relationships with other people, and the ability to handle life’s ups and downs and the feelings that accompany them. Throughout our lives, our physical health as well as stresses in our lives affect our mental and emotional health. The way we have learned — or not learned — to cope with this stress also affects our ability to enjoy optimal mental health.

Yet, just as our physical health may depend on factors which are out of our control, such as our personal physical makeup, mental illness may have more to do with our individual biology than with our habits or lifestyle.

Adults born in the first third of the 20th century grew up accustomed to receiving help from extended families, friends and neighbors in communities which were relatively stable. Today, community agencies and helping professionals provide assistance to older adults whose natural helping communities may have disappeared. People who have been self-reliant in their younger years may not recognize their need for help or wish to accept help even though they may see the need for assistance. For these reasons and the stigma associated with mental and emotional problems, older adults and their family members may not pursue the mental health care available to them which could significantly improve their enjoyment and their quality of life. Many people do not realize that such help is available to them and that it is much more effective than that what was provided less than a decade ago.

While there are many mental health problems which deserve professional attention, there is only enough room in this resource guide to address a few of them. One of the most misunderstood mental health problems is depression.

Depression

It is unfortunate that many people believe that the loss of health, status, friends, family, careers, and other assumed trials of aging may doom older adults to live in a state of depression. Research suggests, however, that older adults do not experience depression significantly more or less frequently than younger adults. But when they do show signs of depression, it should be taken seriously; depression may cause a rapid loss of physical health and may lead to successful suicide. It is true that older adults have different challenges to meet in their lives than younger adults. Most people need help to successfully meet these challenges; but the lifestyle of the older adult — often more isolated by choice or chance than the younger adult — may not afford opportunities to obtain this help.

Depressive illness should not be confused with the transient feelings of unhappiness that everyone experiences — the periods of sadness associated with unhappy events and failures, or the emotional letdowns that occur commonly around holidays. Nor should depressive disorders be confused with the intense grief brought about by the loss of a loved one. Sadness and grief are normal and temporary reactions to life’s stresses; with time, the mood lifts, and people continue to function.

In contrast, individuals afflicted with a depressive illness do not feel better for months, sometimes for years. Depressive illness affects feelings, thoughts and behaviors. The symptoms include:

- Persistent sad, anxious or “empty” feelings;
- Withdrawal from previously enjoyed activities;
- Persistent irritability or moodiness;
- Decreased energy, fatigue, being slowed down;
- Loss of interest or pleasure in usual activities;
- Sleep disturbances, (insomnia, early-morning waking, or oversleeping);
- Appetite and weight changes (either loss or gain);
- Increase in compulsive or ritualistic behaviors;
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness, helplessness;
- Thoughts of death or suicide, suicide attempts;
- Difficulty in concentrating, remembering, making decisions;
- Increased suspiciousness/fear even to the point of visual hallucinations;
- Chronic aches or persistent bodily symptoms that are not caused by physical disease.

Symptoms of depression are often misdiagnosed as “senility”, “organic brain syndrome” or mistaken for the everyday problems of the aged. For example, the memory loss, confused thinking or apathy which are also symptomatic of early dementia may actually be symptoms of depression. On the other hand, the early awakening and reduced appetite typical of depression are common among many older persons who are not depressed.

To further complicate diagnosis, elderly persons rarely admit feelings of depression. Often they incorrectly attribute their depressive symptoms to physical ailments, and either ignore them or seek inappropriate treatment for their perceived illness, when they really need mental health care. Treatment for depression should always be preceded by a thorough physical exam to rule out medical contributing factors.

Depression may accompany many of the illnesses that afflict older persons, such as Parkinson’s Disease, cancer, arthritis, strokes, and the early stages of Alzheimer’s and other neurological diseases. Treating depression in these situations can reduce unnecessary suffering and help afflicted individuals cope with their medical problems. Medications taken by older persons or inadequate diets, often a problem of older individuals who live alone, can also cause depression as a side effect. Alcohol is a depressant and contributes greatly to the depressed mood of the person. Depression in its residual form may be missed diagnostically because the person is no longer tearful. Careful observation by a knowledgeable person, in addition to sophisticated medical evaluation, may be necessary to identify the depressed older person. A physician or other mental health professional attempting to differentiate between dementia and depression may call on family members or longtime friends for information on the patient’s history, since the onset of depression may be more sudden than the usual slow and gradual process of dementia. Also, the individual with organic problems typically minimizes loss of mental function such as memory while the depressed person exaggerates the loss. It is possible for a person to have depression and another brain insult.

The experience of changes in mood or the workings of the mind should never be assumed to be the result of the normal aging process - they are always a sign that something is wrong with a person’s health and that the individual needs medical help. The majority of the mental health problems of older adults are treatable and reversible. As is true with any illness, the earlier the treatment of mental health problems, the more likely the individual will regain the capability of living a normal life. Again, the appearance of behavior, thought, or emotional problems are not a normal experience in later life. There is no justification for anyone of any age to suffer needlessly from depression or other mental health problems because of lack of treatment. Older persons respond to treatment as well as younger persons.

Information on Depression is reprinted in part from “Depressive Illness: Treatments Bring New Hope” (US Department of Health and Human Services Public Health Service, Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration).

The Grieving Process
Grief is a natural accompaniment to any significant loss in our lives. The grieving process may include a feeling of shock or numbness, anger or irritation, fear or anxiety in addition to sadness. Having these feelings after the loss of a loved one is natural.

The more losses that occur for an individual in a short period of time the more difficult to grieve as one never recovers before the next loss occurs. Feelings associated with grieving are also common around other losses as well; for example, retirement (loss of job, social status, role as provider, level of income) or illness (loss of ability to function as before, loss of mobility, of physical stamina or energy, loss of certain activities and social contacts). Loss of a pet to a person with limited social contacts or “family” can be traumatic.

Taking on the role of becoming a caregiver to a disabled or ill spouse or other family member can also trigger feelings of anger, fear or sadness. As the caregiver copes with the loss of the kind of relationship s/he used to have with the person now cared for, loss of free time or of activities in the community, many feelings may arise, some unwelcome or even overwhelming. This is exacerbated by the heavy physical demands of caregiving.

To help process normal feelings of grief and keep from getting stuck in depression, it can be helpful to find a group or individual who can support you in working with your feelings. If sadness turns into feelings of helplessness, hopelessness or emptiness and meaninglessness, or persists over a long period of time, it may be important to talk to a professional counselor. At times medication may be prescribed, under supervision, to enhance mood.

Sharing Support
Research (and common sense) suggest that there are certain steps that can be taken to enhance mental and emotional well-being. Primary among the ways to ensure a higher level of well being is peer support. We need other people to interact with to care about us and for us to care about. When some people feel badly, they want to isolate and keep it all inside. Getting together with others who share your concerns and commit to taking positive steps to support each other can be very powerful medicine, although professional help may also be necessary.

“If exercise could be packed into a pill, it would be the single most widely prescribed, and beneficial, medicine in the Nation.”

Robert N. Butler, M.D.,
former Director, National Institute on Aging

Each year, more and more scientific evidence points to the truth of this statement. Regular physical activity can help the human body maintain, repair, and improve itself to an amazing degree. And most older people - even those with illnesses or disabilities - can take part in moderate exercise programs.

Anyone planning to start a fitness program should see a doctor first. Those with medical problems may have to avoid some kinds of exercise or adjust their level of activity. But even people who are confined to wheelchairs can do some exercises to improve their strength and sense of well being.

It is important to tailor your program to fit your own level of ability and special needs. For example, jogging is not for everyone and may be dangerous for those who have unsuspected heart disease.

Although more research is needed, there is evidence that exercise may strengthen your heart and lungs, lower your blood pressure, and protect against the start of adult onset diseases. Exercise can strengthen your bones, slowing down the progress of osteoporosis, a bone thinning disorder common in elderly women. It can strengthen and tone your muscles, and help you move about more easily by keeping joints, tendons, and ligaments more flexible.

When combines with good eating habits, exercise can help you lose weight or maintain your ideal weight by burning excess calories and helping control your appetite. Exercise may also give you more energy, help you sleep better and feel less tense, improve your appearance and self confidence, and contribute to good mental health by keeping you socially active.

The Area Agency on Aging Health Task Force has compiled a listing of the exercise opportunities. Please call 800-510-2020 for a copy of this listing. Or call your local senior center for more information.

Physical Activity is Essential to Healthy Aging
As an older adult, regular physical activity is one of the most important things you can do for your health. It can prevent many of the health problems that seem to come with age. It also helps your muscles grow stronger so you can keep doing your day-to-day activities without becoming dependent on others.

Not doing any physical activity can be bad for you, no matter your age or health condition. Keep in mind, some physical activity is better than none at all. Your health benefits will also increase with the more physical activity that you do.
If you’re 65 years of age or older, are generally fit, and have no limiting health conditions you can follow the guidelines listed below.

For Important Health Benefits

Older adults need at least:

OR

2 hours and 30 minutes (150 minutes) of moderate-intensity aerobic activity (i.e., brisk walking) every week

OR

1 hour and 15 minutes (75 minutes) of vigorous-intensity aerobic activity (i.e., jogging or running) every week

OR

An equivalent mix of moderate- and vigorous-intensity aerobic activity every week muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week that work all major muscle groups (legs, hips, back, abdomen, chest, shoulders, and arms).

AND

AND

muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week that work all major muscle groups (legs, hips, back, abdomen, chest, shoulders, and arms).

AND

muscle-strengthening activities on 2 or more days a week that work all major muscle groups (legs, hips, back, abdomen, chest, shoulders, and arms).

For even greater benefits, the times listed above can be doubled. For more information on physical activity guidelines for older adults, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has much more information available on their website at www.cdc.gov
Senior Centers serve as focal points of information and services for older persons.

Each senior center has a unique array of services and means to respond to the needs of the community. Services that are available may include: computer training, senior lunch services, information, community education, recreation activities, socialization, music, health screening, arts and crafts, and health insurance counseling.

The philosophy of the senior center movement is based on the following premises: that aging is a normal developmental process; that human beings need peers with whom they can interact and who are available as a source of encouragement and support; and that adults have the right to a voice in determining matters in which they have a vital interest.

Support and education groups consist of people with similar needs or goals who have come together to share information, coping skills and offer each other emotional support. Some groups are “self-help” and do not include professional helpers. These groups depend exclusively on the expertise developed by the people involved in the group, people who have experienced a particular life challenge in common.

Other groups are organized by professional organizations, and meetings and other support services are facilitated by staff of those organizations.

Support and education groups have grown in popularity with the idea that people who have experienced a similar difficulty, problem or challenge can most effectively help others in the same situation.

As the value of support and education groups has become more widely known and appreciated, groups that address a variety of issues have evolved. There are groups for persons dealing with a wide range of life challenges, or for the people who support or care for them.

Support and education groups can provide a valuable emotional support network. In the right group, you will find many people who have experienced the same problems, frustrations and anxieties you may find yourself feeling from time to time, or all the time. Very often someone in the group has discovered a resolution or effective coping tool and they are happy to share with everyone what has worked for them and what may work for you too.

Support and education groups can help to reduce participants feelings of isolation. It may be helpful just knowing that others understand your difficulties and can be there to offer encouragement and support.

Many groups also offer an educational component, with Instruction on topics of relevance to the group provided by the group facilitator or outside speakers.

The following is a list of support and education groups throughout Santa Barbara County. Sometimes, the day, time or location of a meeting changes so it’s best to call the contact person for current information. All groups listed offer free or low cost services. New groups are always forming. If you wish to find out if there’s a support group not listed here, please call Senior Connection at 800-510-2020.

TRANSPORTATION

Transportation is the link to services and programs for many older Americans. Fixed Route Service is a transportation system that has a predetermined route with specific stops that conform to a timetable. The entities that provide this service have available pamphlets explaining the detail of each route.

Veteran's Services

Over the years, federal benefits for veterans have evolved. Veterans of the United States armed forces may be eligible for a broad range of programs and services provided by the federal Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). These benefits are legislated in Title 38 of the United States Code. For additional information, visit the VA Web page at http://www.va.gov.

Eligibility for most VA benefits is based upon discharge from active military service under other than dishonorable conditions. Active service means full-time service, other than active duty for training, as a member of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, or as a commissioned officer of the Public Health Service, Environmental Science Services Administration or National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or its predecessor, the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Generally, men and women veterans with similar service may be entitled to the same VA benefits.

Dishonorable and bad conduct discharges issued by general courts-martial may bar VA benefits. Veterans in prison and parolees must contact a VA regional office to determine eligibility. VA benefits will not be provided to any veteran or dependent wanted for an outstanding felony warrant. Certain VA benefits require wartime service. Under the law, VA recognizes these war periods: Mexican Border Period: May 9, 1916, through April 5, 1917, for veterans who served in Mexico, on its borders or in adjacent waters; World War I: April 6, 1917, through Nov. 11, 1918; for veterans who served in Russia, April 6, 1917, through April 1, 1920; extended through July 1, 1921, for veterans who had at least one day of service between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918; World War II: Dec. 7, 1941, through Dec. 31, 1946; Korean War: June 27, 1950, through Jan. 31, 1955; Vietnam War: Aug 5, 1964 (Feb. 28, 1961 for veterans who served “In country” before Aug 5, 1964) through May 7, 1975 and more recent wars.

Important Documents
Those seeking a VA benefit for the first time must submit a copy of their service discharge form (DD-214, DD-215, or for WWII veterans, a WD form), which documents service dates and type of discharge, or give their full name, military service number, and branch and dates of service. The veteran’s service discharge form should be kept in a safe location accessible to the veteran and next of kin or designated representative.

There are benefits such as life insurance, burial expense reimbursement, burial flag, burial in national cemeteries, headstones/markers and certain widow’s/widowers benefits. The following documents will be needed for claims processing related to a veteran's death:
1. Veteran’s marriage certificate for claims of a surviving spouse or children.
2. Veteran’s death certificate if the veteran did not die in a VA health care facility.
3. Children’s birth certificates or adoption papers to determine children’s benefits.
4. Veteran’s birth certificate to determine parents’ benefits.

You can call the Santa Barbara County Veteran Service Office for information on death-related and other services available to veterans and their families. These offices were established by the Board of Supervisors of Santa Barbara County to assist veterans and their dependents in obtaining Veterans benefits from federal and state agencies. They will assist in submitting claims and provide follow-up service, if needed, to assure that you receive the benefits to which you are entitled. They can provide you with information and assistance with any claim to the Veterans Administration. Home visits by one of the veterans representatives may be arranged.

Health Care Benefits for Veterans
VA provides a Medical Benefits package, a standard enhanced health benefits plan available to all enrolled veterans. This plan emphasizes preventive and primary care, and offers a full range of outpatient and inpatient services within VA health care system.

A priority system ensures that veterans with service-connected disabilities and those below the low-income threshold are able to be enrolled in VA’s health care system.

VA enrollment allows health care benefits to be portable throughout the entire VA system. Enrolled veterans who are traveling or who spend time away from their primary treatment facility may obtain care at any VA health care facility. For eligibility see your local County Veteran Service office or contact the Community Based Outpatient Clinics in your area.

Identity Theft is a serious crime. It occurs when your personal information is stolen and used without your knowledge to commit fraud or other crimes. Identity theft can cost you time and money. It can destroy your credit and ruin your good name. Deter identity thieves by safeguarding your information.

Avoid ID Theft

- Shred financial documents and paperwork with personal information before you discard them.
- Protect your Social Security number. Don’t carry your Social Security card in your wallet or write your Social Security number on a check. Give it out only if absolutely necessary or ask to use another identifier.
- Don’t give out personal information on the phone, through the mail, or over the Internet unless you know who you are dealing with.
- Never click on links sent in unsolicited emails; instead, type in a web address secure place at home, especially if you are having work done in your house. Detect suspicious activity by routinely monitoring your financial accounts and billing statements.
- Be alert to signs that require immediate attention:
  - Bills do not arrive as expected
  - Unexpected credit cards or account statements
  - Denials of credit for no apparent reason
  - Calls or letters about purchases you did not make.
- Inspect your credit report. Credit reports contain information about you, including what accounts you have and your bill paying history.
  - The law requires the major nationwide consumer reporting companies — Equifax, Experian, and Transunion—to give you a free copy of your credit report each year if you ask for it.
  - Visit www.AnnualCreditReport.com or call 1-877-322-8288, a service created by these three companies, to order your free credit reports
- Your financial statements. Review financial accounts and billing statements regularly, looking for charges you did not make.
- Place a ‘Fraud Alert’ on your credit reports, and review the reports carefully. The alert tells creditors to follow certain procedures before they open new accounts in your name or make changes to your existing accounts. The three nationwide consumer reporting companies have toll-free numbers for placing an initial 90-day fraud alert; a call to one company is sufficient:
  - Equifax: 1-800-525-6285
  - Experian: 1-888-EXPERIAN (397-3742)
  - TransUnion: 1-800-680-7289

Placing a fraud alert entitles you to free copies of your credit reports. Look for inquiries from companies you haven’t contacted, accounts you didn’t open, and debts on your accounts that you can’t explain.

- Close accounts. Close any accounts that have been tampered with or established fraudulently.
  - Call the security or fraud departments of each company where an account was opened or changed without your okay. Follow up in writing, with copies of supporting documents.
  - Use the ID Theft Affidavit at ftc.gov/idtheft to support your written statement.
  - Ask for verification that the disputed account has been closed and the fraudulent debts discharged.
  - Keep copies of documents and records of your conversations about the theft.
- File a Police Report. File a report with law enforcement officials to help you with creditors who may want proof of the crime.
- Report the theft to the Federal Trade Commission. Your report helps law enforcement officials across the country in their investigations.
  - Online: ftc.gov/idtheft
  - By phone: 1-877-438-4338 or TTY, 1-866-653-4261
  - By mail: Identity Theft Clearinghouse, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, DC 20580

You may also want to consider auxiliary services at almost any hospital or clinic, or docent opportunities at most museums; or contact the organization that is of interest to you and ask if they have a need for volunteers. - Provider of services to older adults
- Need for individual candidate’s specific talents

- Attend monthly Advisory Council meetings. Meetings are held the second Friday of each month beginning at 9:30 a.m. in a public location in Santa Maria.
- Serve on at least one task force. Council members may also participate in special task forces and joint committees with the Board of Directors.
